FRANCO TO DEMAND SURRENDER

Inmate Grasps Broken Light Bulb, Electrocuted

YOUTH KILLED AT WORK IN POWER HOUSE

Touches Live Wire as He Lies on Steel Cat-Walk Outside Boiler He Was Cleaning.

COMPANION SEES TRAGEDY

Victim, 21, Had Been In State Reformatory Since Last November.

Grasping a broken electric light bulb on the end of an extension cord handed him by another inmate as he lay on a steel cat-walk, Russell Snyder, 21-year-old Mansfield reformatory inmate, was electrocuted at the institution today.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said Snyder, sentenced from Cleveland last November, died in the prison hospital a few minutes after the current, grounded by the cat-walk, rendered him unconscious. The mishap occurred at 10:30 a. m.

Companion In Boiler.

Snyder and John Krizo, 18, another inmate, were at work cleaning the boilers in the power house. The light bulb on the extension cord broke while Krizo was inside the boiler and he handed the cord to Snyder for replacement, the superintendent said.

Snyder evidently placed his hand on the broken bulb and, with the steel cat-walk forming a perfect ground, the current surged through his body, Glattke stated.

In a report to the superintendent, Krizo said that in handing the cord to Snyder, he was holding the cord by the insulated wire. Snyder then took hold of the socket end.

"He grabbed the cord by the socket and a moment later I saw him quiver. I pulled the cord away from him and then called for help," Krizo said

Taken to Hospital.

Guards and other inmates rushed to the boiler room and carried Snyder to the hospital where he died a short time later.

Dr. Hugh C. Winbigler, Richland county coroner, investigating the accident later, said death was due to accidental electrocution.

Parents of Snyder were being contacted in Pittsburgh today.

Snyder was received at the institution Nov. 18, 1937, from Cuyahoga county on a charge of carrying concealed weapons and was under sentence to serve one to three years.

His helper, Krizo, was sentenced Feb. 5, 1938, from Summit county on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent.

Quints Have New Brother, No. 13 For Papa Dionne

CALLANDER, Ont. — (UP) — The Dionne quintuplets have a new baby brother.

He weighs seven and a half pounds and has brown eyes. He was born at 8.15 last night in the same farmhouse where, on the night of May 28, 1934, Mrs. Oliva Dionne, 24-year-old farmwife and mother of five, gave birth to the world famous girls, Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, Emilie, and Marie.

Both the mother and baby were "doing nicely" today. Mrs. Dionne was attended by Dr. I. Joyal of North Bay.

The quintuplets were in bed in the Dafoe nursery across the road from the farmhouse and were not advised of the arrival until today.

Two nurses, Jacqueline Noel, who has been helping care for the quintuplets for two years, and Claire Trembly, assisted Dr. Joyal.

The new baby was the Dionnes' 13th.

METEOR FALLS

Two-Inch Fragment Found In Yard of Illinois Resident.

CHICAGO — (NS) — A bright flash and resounding explosion brought a flood of calls from worried house-holders to the police station in suburban Winnetka late last night.

The disturbance was traced to a home where police found a foot-deep hole drilled in the front lawn. At the bottom they found a smoking hot piece of metal. Northwestern university experts said it was a two-inch fragment of a meteorite.

Vic Donahey Selected As TVA Prober

Garner, Bankhead Name Joint Committee; Borah Refuses to Serve.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Two Republican senators appointed to a ten man congressional committee to investigate the Tennessee Valley authority today declined the appointments shortly after their names were announced.

They were Senator Borah (R-Idaho) and Senator McNary (R-Ore), the Republican leader.

The two were named by Vice President Garner to serve with senators Donahey (D-Ohio), Brown (D-NH) and Schwartz (D-Wyo.)

The other five members, selected by Speaker Bankhead included Mea (D-NY), Driver (D-Ark), Thomason (D-Tex,) Jenkins (R-Ohio) and Wolverton (R-NJ).

Senator Borah criticized the size of the ten-man committee in declining to serve and said he did not believe in conducting investigations by the "town meeting method."

McNary Too Busy.

Senator McNary said his time was too limited to undertake the task.

"I don't want to shirk my responsibilities," the Oregonian said, "and I appreciate the confidence the vice president has reposed in me, but I have to go home, and I won't be able to run back and forth."

The joint committee will make a broad investigation of TVA ordered by congress following dissension among ahe directors of the TVA, which led to President Roosevelt's dismissal of Chairman Authur E. Morgan.

Bankhead told reporters at the press conference that he had "tried to select a fair and capable committee."

He said the members probably would meet in a few days to choose a chairman and perhaps decide whether to engage some assistants and counsel.

"They have a big job ahead of them. I know that," Bankhetad asserted.

"I suspect they may divide into subcommittees to investigate various phases of this thing. As I have indicated previously, it may be necessary for the full committee or subcommittees to go down to that region."

In selecting the men, Bankhead said he had given attention to "geographical considerations and seniority in the house."

NO BREAK SEEN

Cold Weather to Stay With Us, Forecast Says.

There was no assurance today from the weather man that there will be any let up in the subfreezing weather which has presisted for several nights.

The temperature dropped even lower last night than on Sunday night, going to 20 degrees, and freezing harder than the previous night.

The thermometer climbed only to 40 yesterday and that at an hour when the sun was brightest.

Generally fair tonight, cloudy Wednesday, with probable rain, is the forecast for tomorrow.

ORDERS UTILITY SURVEY

BELLEVUE — (AP) — In spite of reductions from 16 to 34 per cent in rates announced by the Ohio Public Service company, Mayor R. E. Woleslagle said today city officials would go ahead with plans to appraise the company's distribution system for purchase or condemnation for purchase.

Murder Victims, Kin of Galion Woman

Stripped to their underclothing, the battered bodies of Mrs. Weston G. Frome, 46, society matron of Berkeley, Cal., (left) and her pretty daughter, Nancy, 22, sister and niece of a Galion woman, were found on the mesquite plains of west Texas Sunday. Both women had been tortured, it is believed, to make them reveal the hiding place of money which it was believed they carried. They had been missing from the Texas highway since last Wednesday. Mrs. Frome was a sister of Mrs. Edward Kreiger of Galion. Federal and state police of Texas were working on several clues today which pointed to two men and two women.

PUSH HUNT FOR DEATH WEAPON

Sheriff and Aids Go Over Old Ground In Effort to Find Clues In WPA Slaying.

Authorities went back over the same ground today as they continued their search for the weapon used in the murder last Wednesday of Sherman Reed, 58, in his cabin east of the city, and an acquaintance who may have quarreled with the slain man.

Basing his theory of a grudge slaying on information obtained from neighbors of Reed who said he lived in fear of an unknown assailant, Sheriff E. P. Long continued to question dozens of friends and relatives of the victim in an effort to establish the identity of the person whom Reed feared.

The sheriff discounted as "meaningless" a lump of coal which was thrown against the residence of Mrs. Virginia Horvath, a daughter of Reed, at 90 South Foster street. The coal, believed to have been aimed at a window, was wrapped in a part of the front page of The News-Journal carrying the story of Reed's murder and a picture of his body.

Sheriff Long said he had learned that a lump of coal had been thrown through a window at the Horvath home several weeks ago, when domestic troubles were given as the reason for the act.

Long and Deputy Frank Robinson searched the area surrounding the three-room cabin where Reed's body was found nearly a week ago for the other end of a gas stove connection believed to have been used by the slayer in beating the WPA worker to death.

The sheriff said he would talk with Reed's 10 children again concerning his recent activities and his companions who were known to have visited Reed at the cottage where he lived alone on Seventh avenue.

Galion Woman Related to Couple Killed in Texas

Two Men and Two Women Hunted In Brutal Slaying of Mother, Daughter; Robbery Plot Seen.

The Texas tragedy which involved a society matron of Berkeley, Cal., and her attractive daughter, who were waylaid and murdered in the Texas "badlands" last week and their bodies discovered Sunday, was felt in Galion today when it became known that Mrs. Edward Kreiger, 303 Payne avenue, Galion, was a sister and aunt of the murdered women.

Mrs. Kreiger left today for Stoughton, Wis., to comfort her mother, Mrs. Louis Johnson. Mrs. Johnson is also the mother of Mrs. Weston G. Frome, 46, of Berkeley, and the grandmother of Nancy Frome, 22, whose mutilated and clubbed bodies were discovered Sunday by two Texas truckmen after federal and state police had set up a search for them.

Plotted In El Paso.

A hint that the torture murders of the society matron and her daughter on Texas' mesquite plains was the outgrowth of a robbery plotted at El Paso came today from Sheriff Chris Fox as officers searched for two men and two women suspects.

El Paso officers entered the investigation, Fox said, "since there is some feeling certain events leading up to the deaths of Mrs. Frome and Nancy originated in this city." Fox did not elaborate.

Piecing together random bits of information, authorities advanced a theory that four persons were involved in the crime.

Search for the two men and two women suspects followed reports by E. M. Wells, division highway engineer at Pecos, that he had seen the Frome automobile near Balmorhea with two women in it. Later two soldiers said they saw two men in the machine.

The car was found abandoned near Balmorhea 200 miles east of El Paso Thursday. Search for Mrs. Frome and Nancy began immediately. Their bodies were found about 50 miles back on the road to El Paso, near Van Horn.

District Attorney Roy D. Jackson of El Paso and Sheriff Albert Anderson of Van Horn held to the belief the murders were committed for money.

UPROAR FLARES

Blum's Demand for Sweeping Powers Greeted With Storm

PARIS —(AP)— Premier Leon Blum's demand for sweeping powers to control France's economic life by decree today threw the chamber of deputies into such an uproar that its president, Edouard Herriot, suspended the session.

This came half an hour after debate began on the premier's financial program, which many political observers predict will cause his downfall.

Jean Montigny, independent deputy, charged the Blum bill—conferring decree powers until July 1—was designed to start "a veritable social and economic revolution."

"That is the way the German republic perished, too," Montigny shouted.

TAMPA, Fla.—(UP)—A county grand jury, climaxing a long investigation of gambling conditions here, today named nine high city and county officials, including the sheriff and chief of police, in indictments charging misdemeanors and failure to break the gambling racket.

Demanding a complete clean-up, the jury asked Gov. Fred P. Cone to remove the indicted officials under his jurisdiction.

Named in true bills were Sheriff Jerry R. McLeod, Chief of Police C. J. Woodruff, County Solicitor Joe E. Williams, Chief of Detectives W. Douglasbush, and Chief Deputy Sheriff Amazon C. Logan.

HOUSE SEEKS O. K. ON MORE AMENDMENTS

Victory Hopes Falling, Foes of Reorganization Bill Start New Fight.

WOULD CURB AUTHORITY

Democratic Supporters Claim Clear Sailing Ahead In Spite of Threats.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Republicans and revolting Democrats virtually abandoned hope today of killing the government reorganization bill in the house, but concentrated instead on trying to riddle it with amendments.

Although granting that concessions made by administration leaders probably would swing enough votes to pass the measure, the opponents sought to strike out three more controversial provisions.

Those provisions would create a new welfare department, substitute a single administrator for the three-man civil service commission, and create an auditor general to check up on federal expenditures.

Would Curb Power.

Elimination of those sections would strip the bill of everything except general presidential authority to consolidate and revise federal agencies, and permission to employ six White House assistants.

Under a compromise by administration lieutenants, the president's reorganization orders could be overridden by a majority vote of congress. Various agencies, including the veterans bureau, could not be incorporated in other departments.

Democratic backers of the bill were so confident of eventual victory that they made no attempt to complete a poll to determine how the members would vote.

Representative Rayburn of Texas, Democratic floor leader, declared in a radio address last night that the legislation would have been passed months ago "had it not been made the opportunity for the demonstration of hostility by the president's foes."

"There is no politics in the measure," he said, "no departure from

RULES ON ANNA

Allman Says Typewriter Can't Be Used for 'Life Story.'

COLUMBUS—(INS)— Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, 32-year-old condemned poison murderess, will have to write her "life story" in longhand if at all and that for members of her family and not for publication, Mrs. Margaret Allman, welfare director, ruled today.

Mrs. Allman made the ruling in ordering that a typewriter, recently loaned to the Cincinnati woman for use while she waited on a supreme court decision on her appeal for a new trial, be removed. The machine had been loaned by Miss Ann Duffy, secretary to Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy.

At the penitentiary, Warden J. C. Woodard scoffed at the idea that there was anything unusual about "all this fuss about a typewriter for Anna Marie Hahn."

SHELBY AND GAS COMPANY SPAR

Rate Question Discussed By Council In Closed Session, Nothing Definite Done.

The city of Shelby and the Ohio Fuel Gas company staged the first round of their bout over gas rates last night, and spent most of the evening sparring.

The question was discussed in executive session, behind closed doors, for more than an hour. After the session was over, gas company officials and members of council said no "formal" proposal had been made, but that tentative set-ups had been discussed.

According to Councilman Charles Swanger, leader in the move to get a lower rate for Shelby than that now in effect, a schedule for the five years was suggested—though it was not considered as formally proposed—by William C. Mead, Mansfield, division manager of the company.

The proposal was for a five-year period, with rates graduating upward at the end of the third year.

The proposal, it was learned, called for a rate during the first three years, of $1 for the first 500 feet, 55 cents a thousand for the next 4,500, and 50 cents for all over 5,000. For the last two years, the rate would be $1 for the first 500, 60 cents for the next

Ultimatum to Tell Loyalists Barcelona Will Be Crushed In Threatened Slaughter.

ADVANCE ON ALL FRONTS

Insurgents Inflict Heavy Losses as Climax of Big Offensive Drive Passes.

HENDAYE FRENCH-SPANISH FRONTIER—(UP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco, Spanish nationalist commander-in-chief, is planning an ultimatum to the loyalist government demaning unconditional surrender, it was reported today.

The alternative, it was reported, would be a merciless attack on Barcelona by every agency of war at the nationalists' command, including a renewal of the mass airplane bombardments that brought protests from foreign governments.

Take Over Highway.

As the report came, the nationalists outside Tortosa commanded with their artillery the Barcelona-Valencia road, last great artery of communication between Catalonia and the rest of loyalist Spain.

There is another road, seven miles from Tortosa at its nearest point—a 22-mile cutoff east of the city, starting at Carmales, passing through Masdenverge and San Carlos and rejoining the arterial highway at Vinaroz. But nationalists as soon as they reached Tortosa — perhaps today — could command this with their artillery, too.

Everywhere the nationalists advanced, driving into and smashing the remnants of the loyalist army which had defended the Catalonian front.

Gen. Franco proposed, it was said, to give the loyalists a reasonable time in which to surrender unconditionally, citing a desire to prevent the useless shedding of more Spanish blood, the United Press learned.

The ultimatum, it was said, would tell the loyalists plainly that if they rejected the nationalist terms, Franco would order a "decisive" attack at once on Barcelona, emergency seat of the loyalist government.

Plans Mass Attack.

In this attack, it was said, Franco would use the maximum force at his command, army, air force

'Too Busy' Right Now to Think About Rose Divorce, She Says.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Fanny Brice, comedienne, said on her arrival from Hollywood today that she was "too busy" at the moment to think about arranging for a divorce from her producer-husband, Billy Rose.

"I'll take care of Billy Rose later," she said.

"Besides," she added, "I'm in no hurry to get married again."

Rose, who has expressed a desire to be free in order to marry Eleanor Holm, former Olympic swimmer who in private life is Mrs. Arthur Jarrett, telephoned her shortly after her arrival and they discussed plans to defend a $33,000 lawsuit brought against Miss Brice by a booking agent, Edgar Allen.

Life Brighter For Ondov As He Begins To 'Enjoy' Aches Again

The world is looking considerably brighter these days to Michael Ondov, 24-year-old Wittenberg divinity student who has been confined to General hospital for five months, for he is beginning to "enjoy" a number of aches and pains; he knows that his sister has recovered from her recent injuries in an auto accident, and that the Ondov fund has long since passed the thousand mark.

Ondov learned of his sister's accident only yesterday, although the attractive Susanne came to see her brother over the week-end. Her face was unscarred and she did not tell him that she had brushed close to death two weeks ago when a car struck her as she was crossing a Cleveland street. While she was unconscious for two days and received severe scalp wounds and body lacerations, news of the accident was kept from Ondov because it happened only a week after his own spinal operation and it was feared the shock would hamper his recovery.

News of the accident came to Ondov yesterday from an unexpected source, when a letter from a friend carried clippings from out of town papers.

The day after the accident, The News-Journal printed a special edition for Ondov and 60 other hospital patients, withholding the story of his sister's injuries.

'Stop Hurley' Move Seen As Dem Leaders Meet Tomorrow

Although party leaders declined to comment on the purpose of a meeting of Democratic leaders here tomorrow afternoon, the conference was viewed today as a move to "stop" Senator William F. Hurley, Lorain Democrat, who is expected to seek re-election from the 27th-29th state senatorial district.

Called the same day that Gov. Martin L. Davey is scheduled to speak at a 17th congressional district rally here, the session will bring party leaders to Mansfield from the four counties in the district "to talk over a candidate for the state senate," E. B. Kallmerten, Richland county Democratic chairman said.

Kallmerten, who has been outspoken against the re-election of Hurley, said "the meeting has been discussed for some time," but denied that it had any connection with Davey's appearance here.

He added that three or four possibilities have been discussed as a candidate, but declined to say that the group to meet here had any preference in selecting a man to oppose Hurley in the primary. The session will probably be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, Kallmerten said.

William McKinley, marshal of the village of Sheffield Lake, near Lorain, was one of the possibilities

Claims Ohioan's Mulcted of Millions in Stock 'Deals'

MOORE SPURS STATE INQUIRY IN 'SHAKEDOWN'

Finds Evidence Fees Paid By New Companies Seeking to Have Stock Qualified.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — Dan T. Moore, chief of the state securities division, sought new evidence today to support his contention that Ohioans have been mulcted of "millions of dollars" through stock sale transactions.

While examiners hunted the evidence, Moore planned to continue his one-man investigation here, but postponed today's session until tomorrow because of a lack of witnesses.

In testimony from Elmer W. Vossler, president, and Earl W. Pfitzer, former sales manager of Vossler and Vossler, Inc., a Cincinnati securities dealing firm, Moore has placed in the record of his investigation assertions that:

Edwin Judy, former attorney-examiner of the state securities commission, accepted sums of money, usually in $500 payments, for "services" to the firm while he was a state employe;

Given 'Advance' Notice.

These services included informing officials of the Cincinnati firm "four days to a week" in advance of when its books were to be examined;

Vossler worked with Judy in attempts to "shake down" representatives of new firms seeking to have stock qualified for sale in Ohio;

Stock of Ohio Mines, Inc., was qualified by Judy for sale at $2, although he knew Vossler and associates purchased 80,000 shares for 18 cents each, and the mining firm was not operating on a full-time schedule, and had not been paying dividends.

Pfitzer testified that a $1,500 "deal" was arraigned with Judy when officials of the Hardin Chemical company sought to have its stock qualified in Ohio in 1935, and that $2,500 was asked of Centroid, Inc., of Cleveland for qualification of stock and arrangements for its sale.

Pfitzer said Vossler approached officials of the Lynchburg Distillery company of Hillsboro, and that when no contribution was obtained, the firm was not authorized to sell its stock.

"Did Judy ever shake down dealers for campaign funds?" Moore asked Pfitzer.

'Campaign Contributions.'

"I don't know," Pfitzer replied, "but Vossler said so. The dealers were told they were making campaign fund contributions. You couldn't just say they were bribes."

"Did any of the money ever go higher up?" Moose continued.

"I don't know," Pfitzer said, "but I don't think any ever was used for campaign or election purposes."

Pfitzer testified that money was paid to Judy in Cincinnati for both Judy and Edward Carney, former securities division chief. He said Judy paid many visits to the Vossler office, but that Carney had not accompanied him.

Twelve Clauses In British-Italian Friendship Pact

LONDON— (INS) —The forthcoming Anglo-Italian friendship pact, reported ready for signature this week-end, deals with virtually every outstanding problem between London and Rome, International News Service was informed reliably today.

The treasy is now being whipped into final shape in Rome and in all probability will be signed by Saturday.

Embracing 12 main clauses, with accompanying protocols, the pact will become effective when Italian volunteers are withdrawn from the Spanish civil war. Premier Mussolini already has indicated these forces will quit Spain as soon as the conflict is over.

The pact, it is stated, will end the Mediterranean tension between London and Rome that has existed since the Ethiopian campaign began in 1935. In addition, it will state Mussolini has no territorial ambitions in Spain.

Al and Donnie Hess, 5 and 8 years old, respectively, can tell you that it's very handy to have a father in the monument business. Donnie and Al were two of the mourners when "Skippy," the pet rabbit of Peggy Iden, died last week. Six of the neighborhood kids felt that Skippy deserved something pretty swell in the way of a funeral, so Donnie and Al agreed to ask their father, Virgil Hess, for a granite memorial. So now it is being carved in formal fashion with the simple markings of "Skippy. 1937-38" on it. Skippy was buried in the Iden's back yard on Wellington avenue, and in a few days his grave will be marked by the swankiest monument that any bunny ever had.

At least they saved a lot of wear and tear on the real thumbs.

LAWYER DENIES HOT MIX 'OFFER'

Protests Woman Attorney's Charge $15,000 Offered to 'Nose-Dive' Suit.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—Benjamin F. Levinson, attorney, denied charges today of Mrs. Agnes B. Dickinson that he was offered $15,000 to create confusion in Mrs Dickinson's two taxpayers' suits against the Shaw Transport, Inc, and the Hot Mix Bituminous Industry of Ohio, Inc.

Levinson filed an intervening petition for a new client, Mrs. Bessie Zuravsky, in the Shaw Transport, Inc, suit. Mrs. Dickinson unsuccessfully opposed Mrs. Zuravsky's entry into the litigation in an affidavit which charged that Levinson, also Mrs. Dickinson's counsel, was offered $15,000 by a man she did not identify to take a "nose-dive" in the case.

Mrs. Dickinson's suits charge the Shaw Transport, Inc., and the Hot Mix group overcharged the state $350,000 and between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000 respectively for hauling liquor and supplying road materials.

She claimed Mrs Zuravsky is related to Sam Zuravsky, who shares offices with Levinson, and that the woman was importuned by Levinson to became the plaintiff in the Shaw Transport suit.

"There is no truth to Mrs. Dickinson's statement that I was offered $15,000," Levinson declared. "These cases will be prosecuted as vigorously as possible in an orderly and gentlemanly manner."

WORK 2 HOURS IN MID-AIR TO REPAIR PLANE'S LANDING GEAR

(By United Press)

SALT LAKE CITY—Two transport pilots for Western Air Express kept their plane aloft for more than two hours early today while they made repairs on the landing gear, enabling them to set their plane down without damage.

Henry Hollenbeck, pilot, on a flight between Salt Lake City and Idaho Falls, Ida., discovered as he started earthward at Idaho Falls that his landing gear had jammed.

Quickly he regained altitude and directed a radio message to the airport in Salt Lake City asking instructions.

He and his co-pilot, Bert Mooney, were advised to return the plane for a possible crash landing. Airport officials enlisted the aid of the fire department in the emergency. Ambulances sped to the airport.

Airplane mechanics said they did not know how the plane might be repaired successfully in mid-air. A radio message was sent to the Lockheed plant at Los Angeles.

Instructions received from the plant were relayed to the men in the plane.

Hollenbeck relinquished control of the plane to Mooney, rolled up his sleeves and went to work.

"I just followed the instructions they gave me," he said. "When I took the top off the landing gear box, I found that the pin on the universal joint controlling the wheel action had broken. Finally I got it wired together, and we set the plane down. That's all there was to it."

There were no passengers aboard the plane.

COUNTY TO PAY

Has $20,000 Ready to Meet February Relief Bills.

Richland county was ready today to pay its February relief bills, amounting to approximately $20,000, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said.

Payment of the bills, which were assumed by the county before the relief administration was turned over to the city of Mansfield on March 16, will leave the county owing for relief costs during the first 16 days of March, the auditor said. The city must pay bills incurred after that time.

Funds for the February bills were made available by a transfer of relief bond retirement funds which were not needed by the county for bonds and interest. Authority to transfer was obtained from the state auditor.

Wolfe said merchants who supplied relief orders during February may obtain their checks at the auditor's office in the courthouse.

GRANDCHILDREN CONTEST WILL

Charge, Paper Filed for Probate Not Kin's Last Will.

A suit to contest the will of Mrs. Sarah E. Hafer, late of Mansfield, had been filed today in common pleas court by Robert E. Hafer and Mrs. Pearl Chapman, of Kalamazoo, Mich., grandson and granddaughter of Mrs. Hafer.

Allen K. Ports, administrator of the estate; H. L. Stafford, Goldia Pifer, Ella Lapell, Catherine Bennett and Charles Amsbaugh are named defendants in the action. The petition charges that the paper filed for probate is not the last will of Mrs. Hafer.

Mrs Hafer died last July, leaving the bulk of an estate valued at approximately $1,100 to the defendants, exclusive of Ports. The plaintiffs are to share in the residue of the estate after the other bequests are made. The will, written in long hand, was drawn Nov. 15, 1934.

WIN EXTENSION OF BARGAINING PACT FOR CIO

Get Guarantee Against Wage Cuts: Governor Denounces Seizure of Plants.

(By United Press)

DETROIT—Regular crews returned today to Saginaw Valley power plants which committee for Industrial Organization workers surrendered last night after winning a four months' extension of their contract for exclusive bargaining rights.

Foremen of the Consumers Power company, whom the strikers evicted last Friday, took charge again.

The strikers had maintained service to the northeastern Michigan industrial area, which they had controlled three days. The new agreement extended their contract until Aug. 4, guaranteed against wage cuts prior to that date, and promised there would be no discrimination against those who struck.

One of 3 Unions.

The Utility Workers organizing committee called the strike. It represents only one of the three unions to which the 5,000 employes belong. An American Federation of Labor union and an independent union also demand the right to bargain for all workers. The inter-union dispute was sidetracked at the peace conference arranged by Gov. Frank Murphy yesterday, by the promise that the National Labor Relations board would hold a collective bargaining election within 60 days.

Meanwhile, the UWOC, a CIO affiliate, has the right to bargain for all workers.

Gov. Murphy, who hurried home from a Florida vacation for the conference, denounced the seizure of the plants.

"It is a bad precedent," he said. "It contributes to the use of force and violence when workers use this means of settling strikes. I am opposed to such actions. They are illegal and cannot be justified."

Last year when CIO strikers closed the Saginaw Valley Power plants and left the 200 communities of the heavily industrialized area without power for 24 hours, Gov. Murphy threatened to call out the National Guard.

What Is The Difference Between Capital Gains And U. S. Income Tax?

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Like the touchback and the safety in football, income and capital gains look so much alike that ordinary people can't tell them apart. We are told that income is safely taxable, but that if capital gains be taxed the capitalistic system will die of eating the meat off its own bones—a disagreeable way of ending it all, to be sure.

By a mental concentration that is downright muscular, some of us can follow the argument as far as the place where the harassed and frantic Mr. X discovers that when he dies the government will not only take his entire estate but sue his unfortunate, busted heirs for $149,000 deficiency caused by the forced liquidation of his property and the inclusion of bad debts as taxable assets.

In conceivable cases, what with one tax and another, the widow of a penniless man may be better off that the relict of a dead magnate noted for his monogrammed pajamas, his wine and pillared house in the suburbs. The poor man's widow is all even, at worst, but her sister under the weeds may be obliged, in theory, at least, to marry another live one to get money enough to bail herself out of the toils, a vicious process on moral as well as economic grounds.

I have been reading, however, a hypothetical case, intended to rise alarm, which leaves me calm and also convinved that a mere definition might be used to excuse from taxation persons who by any rule of justice should not be allowed to ride free.

Here is the case:

Mr. A buys some shares of stock for $200,000 and in the same year sells them to Mr. B for $400,000. A few months later, however, Mr. B doesn't like the look of the market or needs some money and sells the stock back to Mr. A for $200,000. Plainly Mr. A has made a profit, or gain, as he insists on calling it, of $200,000 within a year on which he would have to pay a tax of $97,000. He thinks he shouldn't pay this tax not merely because he wants to keep the $97,000 but also because he says there has been no increment. Mr. A has $200,000 more, but Mr. B has $200,000 less, and Mr. A thinks that the $97,000 taken from him and squandered on wages for government press agents or for actors to paint their faces and chew language represents a living, quivering hunk gouged out of the economic body of the nation.

Now it is my point that whether this $200,000 profit is income or gain makes no difference as long as a man making $3,000 a year and working for it and producing wealth by his work is required to pay an income tax on that. Mr. A makes the point that in his dealings with Mr. B there has been nothing produced. But, whatever the economics of the case, justice demands that Mr. A toss his fair, proportionate dues on the blanket along with the $18 contribution of the $3,000--year man. If he didn't work for his $200,000 gain, and if nothing was produced, that was a pretty soft touch for Mr. A, and he ought to be glad to get over the fence at the end of the year with a profit of $103,000 for sitting in some broker's office watching the numbers dance by on the electric tape.

While he was sitting in the broker's trap and while he was dining on fancy meats and heavy gravy all year long and worrying about his country our $3,000-,-year friend, whom we will call Mr. C, for chump, was punching the clock, taking a lot of mouth from overbearing customers, fretting about the kid's tonsils and the payment on the jaloppy and gnawing the stringy ends of the tough cuts. How do you think you are going to sell Mr. C the idea that he ought to pay an income tax because he is a producer but that Mr. A may be taxed only at the peril of the nation because his $200,000 gain represented no increment?

I understand that in certain phases the capital gains tax is a terrible thing and should be fixed while the star-spangled banner yet waves, but Mr. A's case and all others like it call for a special clause to bar the door.

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—That haystacked needle is no harder to find than a bad word for Joe Penner. . . . Penner, once a poor boy himself, has all he needs, with annuities and such, to last him a long while and he's using his money now to enjoy himself. . . .

Like this: he hears of a children's hospital that needs an iron lung to fight an infantile paralysis epidemic, so he buys one for $18,000, all on the quiet, and gets it there. . . . Then he knows some guys who need a job and he sends them on the road to give shows for kids and collect pennies to help support the "lung." . . . One place it cost Joe $305 to send his show and the collection was 93 cents—and the 93 cents went into the fund. . . . He has a Hungarian orchestra on his payroll, too, and it earns its keep by playing for Joe once in a while. . . . Oldtimers who were big names when Joe was a struggling youngster hold his admiration—they're still "names" to him and when he can help, he does. . . . But chiselers-by-correspondence might as well save their stamps . . . Because Joe has to know whom he's helping, and he's nobody's fool

Joan Crawford's next film, "Fidelity," is taken from a yarn titled "Infidelity." . . . And "Joy of Living," you know, began its career as "Joy of Loving." . . . Both showing how nice Hollywood has become. . . Joan's spending her pre-picture time singing, and they say the voice is worth hearing, which is good to know just as musicals (they say) are on the way out!

A while back when all the studios were building up their contract lists the free-lancers were doleful because most of the movie jobs went to people already on the payroll. . . . The studios now have done something about it—by increasing the number of free-lancers to meet the "recession." . . .

Samples: Paramount's list of 130 players is now 107. . . . RKO'S 83 is a thin 36 now.

Barbara O'Neil has a dog named Snoook—with three O's, but for no special reason. . . . Frank Capra personally presided over Gloria Blondell's screen test at Columbia.

The next picture Ray Bolger will be cut from—if his past luck holds—is "Snug Harbor." Mrs. Jack Oakie (Vanita Varden) has gained six of the 15 pounds she needs to win a test for the role of Miss S. O'H— . . . There's nobody less like the tough characters she plays than Claire Trevor offscreen. . . .

Richard Lane's wrestler, Danny McShain, is the only one of his dozen-odd financial ventures the actor didn't seek. . . . Lane saw Danny at a match in Texas, advised him to get a manager. . . . Danny started writing the actor for advice, finally sent him a contract. . . . Lane's been collecting —15 per cent—but only since Danny became "champion" in his light-heavyweight division. . . . And Danny (take Lane's word for it, not mine) reads the Greek philosophers for diversion!

Tip Your Spring Bonnet To Be In Style

Tip your hat this spring if you are going to be in style! There are about as many different wearing "angles" as there are hats. Even the turbans are tilted. Claire Trevor favors an off-the-face chapeaux of heavily stitched blue silk with flared lines. Another attractive model is the turban which is very smart if you are going in for a black and white costume. It is made of slit cellulose film in a new ribbon-like stripping with long back streamers. Frances Drake has selected a hat made of natural rough straw which is offset on one side by deep-toned roses sewn on either side of the brim.

'Hates Him' For Being Deceitful

By VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I wonder whether you can give me any light on my case. Have been married more than 20 years and have a husband that I do not love, as he deceived me. All that I thought he was before marriage, he just wasn't. I have tried to make a go of it, as there was no alternative."

"I have a small family of boys, and oh, what a life I lead! I have fine children. I try to raise them religiously and they are obedient and love me devotedly. He shows such a bad example for them by swearing, drinking, running around with the wrong kind of people. He tells them religion isn't true.

"He keeps a goodly amount of money, and we have to get along the best we can on what he gives me and be satisfied. I am trying to educate two of the boys and the other one is working, but we don't have enough to support us. I am not strong enough to do outside work. All I would ask in the world is a good husband and a congenial home for my children, the right environment. The children loathe him because he is mean to them. What do you suggest? Do I have grounds for divorce? I can't stand it much longer. CHARITY."

Granted that your husband is as bad as you say, I hardly think it is right to teach the children to "loathe" him and for you to allow yourself to "hate" him, do you? After all, religion teaches us to love our enemies and do good to those that despitefully use us. A man certainly will not reform and believe that religion is true and good if those he lives with hate him. It is one of the saddest things about so many who call themselves Christians, that they do not live the sort of life that their leader, Jesus, taught. If you did, and taught your boys that hard as it is to live with a man with a disposition like their father's, and one who does the things he does, he is, after all, to be pitied and will never be happy while he acts so.

Apply to your welfare agency and see if they cannot persuade your husband to give you and the boys enough to live on. You have grounds for divorce if your husband is cruel and does not support you properly, but do you think if you got a divorce you could get him to give you alimony? There are so many loopholes for men to slip through when their wives leave, it is pretty hard to collect.

Your life has been very disappointing, I understand, but you have three fine boys, so you cannot be altogether unhappy. If you could stop worrying and have faith that if you do what is right and are a good wife and mother you will come out all right, maybe it would improve your health.

It is hard to know what to advise in such a case. Often it is more practical to put up with things for the sake of keeping the home, than to get a divorce and have nothing to live on. If you were well, I would advise leaving and working for yourself and the children.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

DOUBLE LEAD THROWS

Any kind of a lead-throwing play which makes the opponents present a trick to you is a pretty maneuver. The simpler forms of these occur with fair frequency. But once in a blue moon there comes a chance to use two such plays in the same deal, perhaps making first one defender give you a trick and then the other.

One-No Trump was West's opening call here, followed by 2-Spades from North, 3-Clubs from East, and 3-No Trumps by West.

North elected to lead the club Q against this contract and West won with the A. When the diamond A was cashed, North's void became apparent, and West switched to the heart 5 and A. The heart J was next finessed and the heart K cashed. North's distribution was now pretty well known to the declarer, so he cashed the club K and threw North in with a club. After winning two clubs, North was forced to lead a spade to West's tenace in that suit. The spades Q and A were followed by a heart to South's Q, it being evident now to declarer that South had nothing to return but diamonds. South took the heart Q and diamond K and then had to give up a trick to dummy's diamond Q.

Two clubs and a heart were all the tricks the opponents were able to capture because of West's ability to time properly the placing of each opponent in the lead.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, April 6.

A very promising state of affairs is forecast from the interesting planetary configurations. There are promises of promotion, favors and preferment from superiors and those in influential positions, all of which should enhance personal prestige and popularity. Nevertheless, there are a few signs of a menacing nature, in which duplicity, fraud or misrepresentation may cause trouble. In all secret matters be vigilant, but push affairs in which young people, correspondence and writings have part. Small interests should flourish.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a progressive and prosperous year, with personal popularity as well as prestige established. Friendship, those in important places and young folks may contribute to the happiness. Beware of deceit, contention and fraudulent transactions.

A child born on this day may be capable and ambitious, enhancing its success by its friendly and congenial disposition. It may have talent in cultural fields and have many social graces to add to its prestige.

If a chicken is well rubbed inside and out with a cut lemon before being cooked it will make the meat white, juicy and tender.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

As I read Mary's cool, little note in answer to my protest that I could not stay and listen unrecognized to Dicky's colloquy with the woman who had drunkenly called me at the hotel, I was frightened at the tide of unreasoning anger against my husband's young niece which rose within me.

How dare she treat this horrible situation humorously? I stormed to myself, being careful to utter no word aloud. And how dare she arrogate to herself the decision to stay in the dining booth, which afforded us complete protection from the eyes of my husband and the unknown woman with whom he was dining, and, at the same time, permitted us to hear every word of their conversation.

How dare she, I ranged on to myself, change her voice in giving the waiter an order, and impose silence upon me under the pretext of a hoarse throat so that Dicky should not guess our proximity to him?

The next instant a wave of shame swept me from head to foot. The girl seated across the table from me was my most devoted friend as well as my husband's niece. She had given me countless proofs of her loyalty to me. Whatever she was trying to do, she was doing from her best judgment and the purest devotion. No matter how loathsome the idea of espionage upon my husband was to me, I must not show my resentment to Mary.

But Mary's keen eyes already had seen and understood only too well. Her eyes were suddenly dark with resentful humiliation, and a hot flush of embarrassment swept her face to the roots of her hair. She seized the pencil but before she could write, I took it swiftly from her fingers, forcing a smile to my lips the while, and wrote rapidly.

"Please don't think I'm angry, Dearest. I know you're doing all this for the best, but it just seems as if I can't stand it to sit here and spy."

I pushed the paper over to her and was rewarded by seeing the hot flush of resentment ebb from her face, while her eyes and lips flashed forgiveness to me. Then she took the pencil and wrote an imperative message with flying fingers.

"I know a little about this." I read with astonishment when she had finished and shoved it over to me. "Believe me, it is better for Uncle Dicky, the poor Quixotic idiot that he is, to have somebody hear something at first hand about it. And you are not spying. But I am so set on seeing this thing through that if you get up to go, I'm going around the table and say to Uncle Dicky: "Surprise, surprise! Auntie Madge and I are here. Won't you join us?' Now, Darling, I mean this, neither and nor but. Please play up and don't make it hard for me. And I think we'll be hearing something soon. Uncle Dicky's just got through ordering, as you've probably heard. He's feeding the dame well. I'll say that for him. But he wouldn't buy her a drink."

I did not need Mary's note to tell me that. When she had begun to write there had floated over the partition between us the first words the woman on the other side had uttered since Dicky turned on her so savagely for uttering my name. Dicky had taken a good deal of time in his order to the waiter, and I guessed that he was sparring for time, desirous of putting off the unpleasant hour which appeared to be waiting for him.

"Please, Dicky-bird," she had said coaxingly. "Aren't you going to buy a drink?"

"You've had enough and to spare already," he had retorted. "Later on, if you behave yourself, perhaps I'll order you one."

My Neighbor Says:

Do not mound up earth around fruit trees just planted. It is better to leave a little depression around each tree to catch rain when it falls.

When making a white sauce sprinkle the amount of flour needed on top of the heated milk and beat with a rotary egg-beater. It will come out smooth and creamy.

Tumblers that have been used with milk should always be washed in cold water before they are washed in hot. When this is done the milk will not stick to the glass and they will not have a cloudy appearance.

THEATER

RANDOLPH SCOTT'S Virginia wife moves up to first place in importance among Hollywood's race horse folks. She is the owner of Battleship, the progeny of Man O' War, Kentucky bred and Virginia raised thoroughbred that won the Grand National steeplechase in England. Randy won't say but it is generally believed that he had a sizable stake on his wife's racer. . . . English audience always giggle when an American film character calls for a Scotch and soda, as it is always "whisky and soda" over there. And don't the manufacturers of bourbon and rye wish there would be a change here! . . . Whether you like Hepburn or not, you've got to hand it to any actress who can play the dramatic role in "Stage Door" and then switch to the hilarious slap stick of "Bringing Up Baby," one of the howls of the year. Or any year.

Does Slap Stick Comedy.

Speaking of the Hepburn picture, which remains at the Madison through Wednesday, an oldster at movie going will remember little Mabel Normand of the enormous dark eyes, one of the very few pretty stars to excel at slap stick comedy. Certainly not since Mabel was swallowed up by dark tragedy has another star approximated her talent until Katherine Hepburn tries her hand at it in this picture. She does low comedy falls, tears her clothes, falls in the river, everything except taking a custard pie on the chin. Cary Grant, who does romantic comedy second to no other man on the screen, plays opposite her and between them they have a comedy that rocks audiences with laughter from beginning to end.

Future Assured.

The future of Deanna Durbin is assured so far as money and beauty are concerned, unless some unforeseen calamity undermines it. Her conservative parents safeguard her earnings and a physician joins her parents in seeing to it that her beauty is assured. There are no fancy diets; she eats three well-balanced meals a day, but goes to bed early every night to guard that schoolgirl complexion and the clear sparkle of her eyes. There's always 10 hours sleep, with everything on schedule. Her music lessons, her education and her screen work leave little time for social activities. Her latest picture is "Mad About Music" with Gail Patrick. Herbert Marshall and Arthur Treacher in her support. The picture is at the Ohio.

Gangsters Battle.

"Night Spot" opening at the Majestic today on the two-feature bill, is another gangster picture with thrills of that variety. Joan Woodbury, singer, saves a gangster from a charge of murder and in gratitude he gives her a spot at his night club. Gangsters and police battle with wits and guns, and as always, officers of the law win. Bradley Page, Allen Lane, Gordon Lane and Parkaykarkus are in the cast. A re-issue of "Small Town Girl," with Janet Gaynor and Robert Taylor is the major offering.

"Tovarich" at Ritz.

The Broadway stage hit "Tovarich" provides Charles Boyer and Claudette Colbert with a vehicle that is tailor made for each of them. It is the story of a young and handsome couple who are political refugees from Russia, a grand duke and his duchess. With a fortune in jewels in their possession they are still penniless and homeless in Paris until they find positions as valet and lady's maid in a home of wealth. Basil Rathbone and Anita Louise are importantly cast. Predominately a romantic comedy, it has moments of deep seriousness. On the same bill at the Ritz is "My Dear Miss Aldrich" with Edna May Oliver, Maureen O'Sullivan, Walter Pidgeon and Rita Johnson.

NCO To Pass Up Carnival

Conference Schools Book Dual Meets Rather Than Compete in Relays.

By OSCAR RUHL
News-Journal Sports Editor.

SCHEDULES of N. C. O. conference schools show that the majority are again planning to compete in dual meets on the day of the Mansfield Relays.

While probably none of this sector's teams could cut much of a figure in the Stadium field classic, it is surprising how few compete.

The experience a flock of athletes can gain in this type of competition usually proves valuable in the development of teams, but still the N. C. O. coaches stay away from the Relays.

It seems difficult to convince them that not every school that competes in the Relays has designs on the title. Many coaches regard the Relays as a perfect event for experimental purposes, and enter full squads merely to accustom their athletes to competition.

Many athletes look like Jesse Owenses in practice, but tighten up under pressure. The Relays is a good place for coaches to find this out.

Of course, coaches whose only interest in entering carnivals is to win might be better off to keep their squads at home. The Relays championship is not easily won.

RANDOM SHOTS — Marion is the only N. C. O. conference school holding spring football practice. . . . Waite Hoyt's blast at the National league is not expected to make it any easier for him to win ball games this year. . . . Tony Canzoneri, who held three or four worlds championships at one time or another, believes a year of continuous fighting has taken its toll on Henry Armstrong, and thinks both Barney Ross and Lou Ambers will lick the colored champion next summer. . . . The French Athletic Federation has begun a hunt for talent in the African colonies for Jesse Owenses and Johnny Woodruffs. . . . Goose Goslin, signed by the Senators, may make Mickey Cochrane sorry that he ever released him. The Goose has been ruining baseballs in camp. . . .

Henry Picard Wins Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (U.P.) — Henry Picard went home with $1,500 prize money today after shooting sub-par golf for four strenuous rounds in the fifth Masters' links tournament. Leading by a stroke as he went into the stretch yesterday, Picard swelled his margin to two, for an aggregate of 285, three under par for the 72 holes.

Harry Cooper, Chicopee, Mass., and Ralph Guldahl, Chicago, finished in a tie for second with 287's.

Bobby Jones, sponsor of the tournament and the favorite, and Gene Sarazen, former Masters' titlist who had been a stroke back of Picard at the three-quarter mark, finished out of the money. Jones tied with Harold (Jug) McSpaden, Wheaton, Mass., for 12th place with 297.

Nolan Plans Fight Show

AN ATTEMPT to revive boxing interest in Mansfield will be made at the Armory next Monday night by the Quality Athletic club, Matchmaker Tim Nolan announced today.

The principals for the card have not been signed, Nolan stated. However, he has been in contact with the managers of a number of outstanding scrappers, and expects to have the participants in the main bout signed late today.

Nolan, formerly associated with Bryan Downey, former Cleveland middleweight star, in the promotion of fights, plans to alternate the boxing and wrestling shows at the Armory.

Admission prices will remain unchanged, he said. Ringside seats will sell at $1, with general admission 42 cents.

K. of C. Show 'Batter Up'

Present Baseball Picture at Club Thursday.

"Batter Up," new official American league sound film, will be exhibited locally for the first time since its recent release to members of the Knights of Columbus and their friends at the K. of C. home, 157 West Fourth street, at 9 p. m. Thursday.

FONSECA

Practically every department of play is touched upon in the new film, which supplants the three previous editions, "Heads-Up Baseball," "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" and "Play Ball." Scenes in "Batter Up" are entirely new, and require approximately 40 minutes for a showing.

Many interesting facts concerning play in the major leagues are revealed in the new film, which shows all of the outstanding stars in the league in action. Slow motion is employed to illustrate the more important points.

Included in the film this year are views of the baseball school maintained by the league for boys under 17 years of age, the all-star game in Washington and the world series.

"Batter Up" was written and directed by Lew Fonseca, former Cleveland star, now director of promotion for the league, and recorded by Ted Husing, nationally known sports announcer.

Bowman Wins Track Meet

Thin-clads of Bowman school won the first of a series of quadangular Grade school track meets at Stadium field Monday.

The Bowman team tallied 28¾ points to topple Carpenter, Hedges and West Fifth. Hedges finished second with 21½, and Carpenter scored nine points while West Fifth failed to place in any event.

Bowman athletes won firsts in three of the seven events. Baker of Bowman won the 60-yard low hurdles in 9.5, and Crownover annexed the high jump and broad jump. His mark for the high jump was 3 ft. 10 in. and for the broad jump, 13 ft. 2½ in.

R. Moorhead and Borden of Hedges came through with first places in two other events. Moorhead won the shot putt with a heave of 29 ft. 3 in., while Borden [illegible] 7.5 for the 50-yard [illegible]. Eight Teams, Including Sports, Battle to Advance In Gold Medal Event.

TWO Mansfield quintets will battle Wednesday at the Y. M. C. A. to advance to the semi-finals in the Class A division of the Gold Medal basketball tournament.

The clubs, Reece Opticals and Willis Billiards, face dangerous out-of-town teams in the struggle to reach the semi-finals.

Play Galion Barbers.

The Billiards, whose performance against the Shellmar Products club of Mt. Vernon established themselves as serious title contenders, open the fireworks at 8 p. m. against the Galion Barbers. The Opticals face the Marion Snappy Service outfit in the other tilt at 9:15 p. m.

Three other Mansfield teams make their debut in the Class B. division Wednesday. The Junior Yuncker Sports, favorites to annex the B crown, receive their first test from the Mansfield Y. M. C. A. club in a tilt scheduled to get underway at 7:45.

The other Class B clash brings together the Rex Billiards, champions of the Friendly House Senior league, and the Willard Merchants at 7 p. m.

Winner Meets Lunches.

The winner of the Willim Billiard-Galion Barber affair will clash with Jimmy's Lunches in one of the Class A semi-finals while the Lakewood Merchants tackle the winner of the Snappy Service-Reece Optical game.

All semi-finals games will be held at the Y Thursday, with the finals and consolation tilts scheduled for Friday.

Decide Title At Y Tonight

The Church Class B league championship will be at stake tonight when First Lutheran and Park Avenue Baptist meet on the Y. M. C. A. hardwood. The clubs finished the regular season with 16 victories and two defeats.

The tilt, scheduled for 8 o'clock, will be preceded by a preliminary game at 7 p. m.

Leads Lunches At Alliance

Bill Donnellan is certain of a good-sized cut of the singles money in the Inter-City bowling tournament now in progress at Alliance.

Donnellan pounded out a 659 total with games of 256, 205 and 195 in the individual event over the week-end, and the count placed him well among the leaders.

Donnellan only bowled in the minor events as he accompanied the Roma Lunches to Alliance, the Waiters collecting 2729 pins in the five-man. Henry Michaels shot a 578 total, and Ritter contributed 544. Leathers, 539; Bernat, 538, and Applan, 530.

Michaels, with a 617, and Ritter upset 1185 to lead the Mansfield doubles combinations. Bernat and Donnellan came through with a 1122. Following Donnellan in the singles were Applan, 611; Michaels, 589 Bernat, 582; Leathers, 530, and Ritter, 515.

Maygar, Routt Win Matches

Joe Maygar of Hungary proved too much for Eddie Pope of Rocky Mount, N. C., in the Quality club's main go at the Armory last night.

The husky Hungarian wasted no time in polishing off Pope in straight falls. The first fall was accomplished in 17 minutes with a front leg-lock. Maygar repeated with body slams and a smother in 5 minutes.

The semi-final turned into a slugging and choking melee, ending with the "Mad Prince" Ilaki of Bozdad Arabia being disqualified and the match being awarded to Railroad Routt of Louisville. The Prince took the first fall in 14 minutes with a crab hold, but Routt came back in the second fall with his own special hold, the "Routt lock," to pin Ilaki in 11 minutes. For 8 minutes the Prince slugged and gouged until Referee Clarence Miller raised Routt's hand for the match.

The curtain raiser brought together "Copper" Francis Steele of Plymouth and Joe Wolf of Columbus former footballer. This event went the full 20-minute time limit and Miller called it a draw.—By Paul White.

BIG TEN COACHES ADOPT NEW SCHEDULE PLAN

CHICAGO—(AP)—Each school in the Western conference will play all others in basketball each season under a schedule plan adopted last night by Big Ten coaches.

Heretofore, each team clashed with six foes in two games on a home-and-home basis. Henceforth, each will schedule three schools for home-and-home games and the others for single tilts. For the latter the sites would be reversed each year.

They All Look Bad to Graham, Who Picks Yanks, Giants to Win

By DILLON GRAHAM

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—The usual baseball forecast tells reasons why various teams are favored. Being in a revolutionary mood today, I'm going to execute an about-face, back into the yarn, tell you what I dislike about every club and then, my friends, you can have my selections for what they are worth.

I dislike the White Sox because they'll miss broken-legged Luke Appling at shortstop. Catcher Luke Sewell is getting no younger. Hard-hitting Hank Bonura's gone.

Thumbs down on the Boston Red Sox because they're depending too much on rookie tossers. Their catching isn't so hot. They're not even entertaining, since Clown Al Schacht moved on.

I don't like the Yankees because they depend too much on Joe DiMaggio for a spark-plug. They've been riding too high—they're due for a fall. (I'm astonished that I can find nothing else to dislike about the Yankees.)

A frown for the Indians, for they lack left-handed pitching. Rollie Hemsley is a pretty old dog to learn the new trick of walking a straight line. They're weak at second base.

I can't offer a vote of confidence in the Tigers since their pitching hasn't improved materially. Schoolboy Rowe hardly will be of much value. They'll miss

GRAHAM . . . he saw 'em all in training camp.

Gerry Walker and Marv Owen.

Micky Cochrane will be like a nervous old maid, trying to manage from the dugout. The left side of the infield isn't too fancy.

Too many young pitchers and too many left-handed hitters spell a big "no" for the Senators. I dislike the A's and Browns on too many counts to mention.

Since miracles rarely happen, I can't vision the Boston Bees getting the pitching they obtained last year. They couldn't punch, even in the Three-I league.

Just to be different, here's a good word for the not-so-daffy Dodgers. They're beter than last year, but— Rookie Pete Coscarart at second base can't hit. The pitching doesn't sparkle. The outfield is questionable and the Brooklyns need another catcher.

I find it hard to dislike the Cubs, but they have too many master minds—Grimm, Hartnett, and Lazzeri. They're too brittle.

Luck has got to desert the Giants sooner or later. They've been the luckiest team in the league for two years. It's time for Hubbell to start slipping. They need pitching reserves.

The Reds are almost sure to show a reversal of form. They've got good pitching but I still dislike them because their strongest punches seem to be ineffective left jabs.

The Pirates look good on paper but they can't win enough games on the field. They're about the same ball club which could use better pitching and harder hitting.

Adding up all my cordial dislikes, I find the situation looks something like this for 1938:

American	1937 Finish	National	1937 Finish
New York	1	New York	1
Cleveland	4	Chicago	2
Detroit	2	St. Louis	4
Chicago	3	Pittsburgh	3
Boston	5	Cincinnati	8
Washington	6	Brooklyn	6
Philadelphia	7	Boston	5
St. Louis	8	Philadelphia	7

Along the Bowling Front

WITH only a few more weeks of bowling, the Liederkranz club's chances to win the Club league title were endangered at the Meder alleys last night when it dropped three decisions to the Tracy & Avery entry at the Meder alleys. The second place Baku Grotto took a pair of tilts from the Kiwanians to reduce the Liederkranz lead to two games.

Led by Hursh's 605, the Grotto won team scoring honors with 2836, bettering the American Legion's total by one pin. Unger of the Gas Meters pushed out a 601 total.

Oscar Walters' Barbers paced the Commercial C league teams with a 2675 aggregate, with Vogel contributing a 256 game. Charley Gimbel of the Jackson Potato Chips rolled out a 620 for the individual lead.

In the Shelby Cycle league, D. Yarmon of the Machine club came through with a 602, opened with a 246 game.

Gun for Lead In City Tourney

12 Teams Bowl Tonight as Pinfest Continues at Meder Alleys.

DETHRONEMENT of the Mansfield Tire Breaker Assembly club from the top of the City bowling tournament standings was on the minds of members of 12 teams as they waited for the gong that will send them into action at the Meder alleys at 7 p. m. today.

Aided by a fat handicap, the Tiremen vaulted into the top position of the city classic last week with a 2949 total, and tonight will mark the first attack on the leaders since then.

Changes Anticipated.

Whether the Tire team will be disloged remains to be seen, but a number of changes are expected in the five-man standings. Tonight's squad includes a number of formidable aggregations.

Among the teams scheduled to take to the drives are the Lumbermen's Mutual and Liederkranz clubs of the City league. Commercial B and C and plant league teams are also billed for action.

The teams include Oscar Walters' Barbers, Unit Untiet Insurance, Q Billiards, Empire Pay Rolls, Westinghouse Merchandise, Shelby Cycle office, Levering Dairys and Ohio Brass Maintenance, Iron Finishing and General office.

Roll Minor Events.

A full shift of singles and doubles will follow the five-man event.

Present leaders in the minor events are John Rissler, 624, in the singles and McPhern and Forrest, 1276, in the two-man.

LAST NIGHT'S HOCKEY
International-American League Playoffs
Syracuse 3 Cleveland 2 (4 overtime periods).

Indians Pound Out 19 Hits to Defeat Giants

Lary Leads Way as Tribe Wins, 11 to 7.

AUSTIN, Tex. — (U.P.) — In the first six games of their long spring series with the New York Giants, the bats of the Cleveland Indians were singularly silent. However, today that silence had been broken by a resounding crash of base hits.

Cleveland cut loose with some of its expected power here yesterday to take a slugfest from the Giants, 11 to 7.

The Indians nicked Cliff Melton, one of the National league's outstanding freshman stars of a year ago, for 13 hits in the seven rounds he worked and then garnered six additional safetics off Rookie Bill Lohrman in the final two innings.

Lary Hits Homer.

The savage Cleveland attack was paced by Lyn Lary, who secured four hits in six trips to the plate. One of Lary's safeties was a home run and two others were doubles.

Johnny Allen and Denny Galehouse shared the pitching burden for the Indians. Allen worked the first five innings and gave up six hits and three runs. Galehouse was touched for eight hits and four runs in the last four innings.

Julius Solters, hard-hitting outfielder who has been in the holdout ranks, joined the Cleveland team yesterday, but too late to get into uniform.

The Indians and Giants were to meet again today at Bryan, Tex.

Barons Eliminated From League Playoffs By Syracuse, 3-2

CLEVELAND—(INS)—The Cleveland Barons, percentage champions of the International - American Hockey league, today were eliminated from the league playoffs, but it was only after 122 grueling minutes of action that they bowed to the Sycamore Stars, 3 to 2.

The Barons, with only 10 men available, had their last chance last night at the Arena to continue in the playoffs. They fought shorthanded through four overtime periods before Max Bennett, the Stars' little rightwing, took a pass from bespectacled Chuck Shannon and fired the puck past the tiring Moe Roberts into the Cleveland net.

Nerve-Tingling Affair.

The contest, a nerve-tingling, bone crushing affair, was the longest professional hockey game on record here. It started shortly after 8:30 last night and the deciding goal wasn't scored until 1:15 this morning.

The Barons went into the game with 11 men ready for action, including Coach Bill Cook, who, at the beginning of the season had not intended to play. Shortly after the opening of play, Center Oscar Hansen was taken off the ice with a wrenched knee. He was the sixth Baron in the last month to join the hospital list.

The Stars now will meet the winner of the Philadelphia-Providence series in the eastern division to decide the league championship.

Few Player Trades Loom In National

Cubs, Dodgers Said to Be Angling for Phillies.

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(INS Sports Editor)

NEW YORK—Reported deals, whereby the un-phortunate Phillies were to make a forced sale of either Wayne La Master, left hander, to the Brooklyn Dodgers of Bucky Walters, right hander, to the Chicago Cubs, just aren't on at this time, the writer is able to state pretty authoritatively today. If either deal is made at all, in fact, it won't be before May 15 or as much later as the phlabbergasted management can stave off the wolf in the grass or the snake in sheep's clothing or both.

All that can be said now is that, when and if the La Master-to-Brooklyn deal is closed, it will include cash, an extra outfielder, possibly Tom Winsett; an extra infielder, maybe Woody English; and an unnamed pitcher, these being listed according to their importance—to the un-phlinching Phils. It's the first time I knew the Dodgers had a pitcher.

Much was being made locally today about a so-called "mystery trip" undertaken by the Brooklyn overseer, Burleigh Grimes, several days ago, the intimation being that he was endeavoring to creep up furtively upon La Master and surround the fellow. It was simpler than that. What he was trying to do was to sign Infielder "Skeeter" Webb, recently turned loose from the Cardinals' lock-step by the stern edict of Judge Landis, the man with the bearded brow.

Webb, last year with Columbus, was the vassal thus liberated who couldn't have been bought over the back fence. He's therefore, playing the field, which currently includes a couple of class AA offers. It may be that it also includes a nibble from the Chicago White Sox, who are looking for somebody or anybody to play shortstop in place of the injured Appling and are, I understand, even trying to get English waived out of the National league.

Meantime, the understanding is that the Detroit Tigers are doing nothing about the loss of Croucher, because their two third basemen are standing up and, when the time comes, Rogell will play plenty of shortstop. He always has.

All told, it seems unlikely that there will be much more trading before the June 15 deadline, especially in the National league.

PAUL DEAN READY TO START AT BOTTOM AGAIN

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—(AP)—The report that Pitcher Paul Dean had signed a contract with Boss Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals was the chief item of news today as the Gas House Gang checked in for a game with their Columbus farm. The Cards, it is said, got waivers on their pitching problem child so he could attempt a comeback with one of their minor league "branches."

OHIO FALLS IN LINE WITH U. S. G. A. RULINGS

COLUMBUS—(AP)— The Ohio Golf association fell in line today with recent rulings of the United States Golf association, and adopted the new modified stymie, permitting the lifting of balls, and 14-club regulations for the 35th Ohio at the Scioto country club the week of June 20.

PHILLIES SIGN PITCHER FREED BY LANDIS

BILOXI, Miss—(UP)—President Gerry Nugent today announced that the Philadelphia Phillies had signed Pitcher Ed Heusser, formerly of the St. Louis Cardinals. Heusser was made a free agent by Judge Landis' decision against the Cards' farm chain operations last week.

COSTS GIANTS 23 BALLS

BRYAN, Tex.—(AP)—It was Cleveland's turn to be the "home" team in its long series with the New York Giants today, and Bill Terry was thankful. The Giants supplied the baseballs for yesterday's exhibition at Austin, and 23 of them were hit into the crowd.

YANKS NOSED OUT AGAIN

FT. WORTH, Tex.—(U.P.)—The New York Yankees made the fourth stop of their pre-season exhibition tour here today to meet Ft. Worth's Texas leaguers. The Yanks were nosed out 7-6 yesterday by Houston.

GRANT UNDER KNIFE

HOUSTON, Tex.—(AP)—Bryan (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta, the country's fourth ranking tennis player, underwent an operation for acute appendicitis early today.

WOMEN PLAY PORTAGE

AKRON—(U.P.)—The annual Ohio women's golf tournament will be held at the Portage Country club here July 11-15.

CUBS SIGN RUSSELL

BISBEE, Ariz.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs today acquired the veteran Jack Russell in an effort to bolster the pitching staff.

It's Odd

But It's Science.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The American Journal of Cancer tells of heavy water jags in mice that partly protected them against cancer—although it caused their premature death.

The experiments, however, showed that heavy water had some effects on cancer that were specific. They were reported by W. U. Gardner, L. C. Strong, James B. Hamilton, Arthur Kirschbaum, and Paul H. Barbour, jr., of Yale University School of Medicine.

The mice had cancer when the water was given to them. They drank the water, so that it presumably distributed uniformly throughout their bodies, and not just in the cancers.

But in these "heavy" drinkers the cancer's growth slowed down by a half; the rest of the animals' growth was not noticeably retarded.

Just why heavy water should retard cancer growth more than natural growth the Yale men say is not known. It may be an effect on enzymes or on osmotic pressure, they feel. Heavy water is only a few per cent weightier than ordinary water. Its effects are not due to the extra weight, but to the heavy hydrogen in the water.

No Chance If Max Wins, Says Baer

HOLLYWOOD—(U.P.)—There will be no Max Schmeling-Max Baer heavyweight title fight this September, or at any other time. The authority for this statement today was Baer.

"I haven't any hope of fighting Schmeling again," Baer said. "He'll fight Joe Louis for the title, but even if he wins he won't have any part of a September bout. He'll go to Germany with the championship, personally I don't think he'll ever bring it back.

"Promoter Mike Jacobs is thinking of forcing Schmeling to put up a substantial sum as a guarantee he'll fight a return bout."

Here's Why I Use the Want Ads

The Want Ads solve my many everyday problems. These ads tell where I can get a particular type of permanent, or other beauty aids. They find lost articles, reach experienced labor for remodeling, hire a maid, sell articles of clothing, furniture or rent a spare room if I need cash. In fact, there is almost no limit to the work these little ads do. They are so easy to use too. Just call Canal 4251 and Miss Carr or Miss Lee is always willing to assist with your copy.

SELECT ISSUES PACE MARKET, UP FRACTIONS

Rails, Steels, and Specialties Advance as List Displays Recovery Symptoms.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Mild recovery symptoms were displayed by leading stocks in today's markets, but many issues failed to attract buyers.

Selected rails, steels, coppers and specialties managed to tack on fractions to yesterday's final prices. An assortment of minor losses was in evidence near the second hour.

Secondary rail loans were again higher in the bond division. Major commodities were inclined to point lower. Foreign securities markets were uneven.

Brokerage quarters claiming to have discerned faint signs the market has been thoroughly liquidated, even more so than general industry, noted estimates that the average quoted value of all issues listed in the New York stock exchange amounted to $22.32 a share as of April 1, compared with $28.94 the first of March, a low mark since May, 1933.

While the sharp decline in this week's steel mill operations continued to cloud market sentiment, some observers expressed the opinion the output trend still was upward, although it was conceded improvement in the second quarter might come a bit slower than had been forecast.

MINERS GREET ROYAL VISITOR

Thousands Stand in Rain to Get Glimpse of Queen Mother.

MAESTEG, Wales—(AP)—Thousands of jobless miners and their wives and children stood today in a cold rain to greet Queen Mother Mary, the first royal visitor to the bleak Nannvi valley since Edward the Second 600 years ago.

Along the 25-mile route from Fagan's Castle, the queen mother saw the black cavities of worn out coal pits and the rotting buildings of workings abandoned a decade ago.

About 30 per cent of the valley still is jobless.

SHELBY AND GAS COMPANY SPAR

Rate Question Discussed By Council In Closed Session, Nothing Definite Done.

4,500, 55 cents for the next 5,000 and 50 cents for all over 10,000 cubic feet.

Under such a rate, the consumer using 5,000 feet of gas a month, would pay 69½ cents a thousand for three years, and 74 cents for two, an average for the five years of slightly more than 71 cents, or about the same as consumers are now paying, under the rates in effect for the fifth year of the five-year contract which expired a month ago, but which is still in effect, and will remain so until an agreement is reached.

Swanger opposed the upward graduation, and asked Mead what the company might propose in the way of a straight rate for five years. He said Mead told him the best the company could do would be to continue the present rate. For the first four years of the now expired contract, the rates were lower.

Swanger said he felt the city could get a lower rate, adding that other councilmen were of the same opinion. There was no discussion of gas rates at the open meeting, however.

At the conclusion of the meeting, some city officials indicated they would like to delay action on the contract until they see what sort of rate Mansfield is able to obtain from the company. Mansfield's contract, a three-year straight-rate affair, expires next month.

CHAPTER IV.

Gay went to the window, wrestled with it, opened it, and stuck her head out into the frosty air. It steadied her. She drew back with a shiver.

Sylvia was doing her mouth with a pale pink lipstick, gazing earnestly at her own reflection in a little platinum-backed mirror which belonged to her bag.

"Darling—such a draught"

"You made my head go 'round," said Gay. You'd make any one's head go round. Now, Sylvia, listen. You say you were told all about stealing this paper on the telephone, but here—"she put the blue pencilled message down on Sylvia's knee,—"here it says, 'Same time—same place—same money.' What does that mean? It doesn't fit in. What time? What place?"

Slyvia looked at the torn piece of paper. Then she looked at Gay.

"Well, he wanted me to go there again, but I wouldn't."

"He wanted you to go where? Where had you gone?"

"Well, it was at Cole Lester, you know."

"You were at Cole Lester when the man rang you up about stealing the paper?"

Sylvia looked surprised.

"Oh, no, darling, that was in London, but we were just going down to Cole Lester, and he said to wait till it was dark and then go and walk in the yew alley. It is very old, you know, hundreds and hundreds of years, and it meets overhead, so that it's like being in a tunnel. I didn't like it very much, but I thought I'd better go, and when I got to the end he said, 'Is that you?' And I said 'Yes, and please be quick', and he hurried up and told me how to get the paper."

"He was in the alley?"

"Oh, no, darling—outside. I was the one who was in the alley. He was outside. He was outside. There's a sort of window, and we talked through it, all whispery. I didn't like it a bit, and Francis might have thought the most dreadful things, so when he wanted me to go again I wouldn't And now he says he'll tell Francis I took the paper, and if he does, Francis will know about the five hundred pounds, and I don't know what he'll say."

Gay tried to keep her head.

"You say this person wants another paper. How do you know he does?"

Sylvia's eyes widened.

"Darling, he told me."

* * *

Gay put a hand on Sylvia's shoulder—a firm and angry little hand.

"Sylly, I shall shake you in about half a minute. How many times have you talked to this man?"

Sylvia began to count on her fingers.

"There was the time he rang up—that was the first time. And there was the time I've been telling you about at Cole Lester, and the time I was just starting for Wellings. And then I took the paper, and gave it to him, and he gave me the money—I don't know if you count that."

"Count everything," said Gay. "That's four. Now what is five?"

"I suppose it was when he rang me up again."

"He rang you up again? Where?"

"In Bruton street. And he said he wanted me to do something else, and I said I couldn't, and I thought I heard Francis coming, so I rang off. And he rang up next day, and the minute I heard his voice I hung up, and he went on ringing for ages, and I just let him. And then I got a bit cut out of a newspaper, and it just said, 'Two hundred and fifty pounds reward.' And next day this bit of paper—" she touched the torn piece on her knee—"and today there was the other one to say he was going to tell Francis, and if he does, I shall die."

Gay took her hand away, walked to the window, stared blankly at the fog, and came back again.

"You'll have to tell Francis," she said.

Sylvia's color failed suddenly and completely. "He'll kill me," she said in a frightened whisper.

"Nonsense, Sylly!"

"He said he would."

"Francis said he'd kill you?"

Sylvia's eyes were terrified.

"No, no—the man—he said he'd kill me if I told Francis—and he would—he said he'd kill me if I even thought about telling Francis."

"When did he say all this?"

"I think it was last night," said Sylvia vaguely. "I didn't mean to listen, but he said I must. And we're going down to Cole Lester, and if I don't take him the papers, he'll tell Francis—"

"What papers does he want this time?" said Gay.

Sylvia looked at her with brimming eyes. "The ones Francis keeps in the safe in his study," she said.

Algy Somers jumped out of the taxi, ran up the six steps which led up to Miss Agatha Hardwicke's front door, and rang the bell. Almost before it had finished ringing the door opened and Gay appeared. That was one of the nice things about Gay, she never kept you waiting.

Algy Somers was one of the very kind-hearted people who helped to make life with Aunt Agatha endurable by taking her out. The fact that she was wearing the same old black dress in which she had dined and danced ever since her parents went to Madeira was not to interfere in any way with her enjoyment. Her eyes shone and her cheeks glowed.

Algy looked at her admiringly, and then looked away, because he was a careful young man. Gay, of course, wasn't like other girls, but still you had to watch your step.

"I'm awfully sorry about dinner," he said. "I had to stay over time. Carstairs had a lot of stuff he wanted typed —confidential stuff, you know, so I couldn't take it home and do it later."

Gay looked away. She looked straight out in front of her along the dark street. She said in a small, vague voice, "Mr. Carstairs is Mr Lushington's private secretary, isn't he?"

Algy stared at her profile. "Well, you ought to know that by now."

Gay laughed suddenly. "If you'd been talking to the sort of person I've been talking to this afternoon, you wouldn't be sure you knew anything. I wouldn't have sworn to my own name by the time I got away. I hope you don't expect me to be bright and sparkling, because that sort of thing leaves you as dull as ditchwater."

Algy was going to say that she couldn't be dull if she tried, but he thought better of it. An ambitious young man who has hopes of a political career cannot be too careful. He had begun to find Gay a trifle unbalancing. He proceeded to steady himself by talking about the career.

"I think Carstairs is getting a bit reconciled to having me about," he said. "He's Lushington's right hand of course, and he's so appalingly efficient himself that he can't stand any one who isn't a hundred per cent punctual, orderly, accurate, discreet, and all the rest of the official virtues. Brewster, who's been there ten years, is the model—a frightfully brainy chap, and knows the job from A to Z. Well, when I came in, and when Carstairs knew that I was a sort of umpteenth cousin of Lushington's, he naturally made up his mind that I was going to be completely useless, and it's only by keeping the nose on the grindstone in the most unremitting manner that I have managed to allay his foul suspicions. Do you know that I've been late only once in 18 solid months?"

"Marvellous!" said Gay. "How do you do it?"

"Well, the once was quite early on, and Carstairs looked at me with a cold, penetrating eye and said in a voice like a north-east wind, 'This must not occur again, Somers.' And, my child, I saw to it that it didn't occur. Look here, I thought we'd dance—and then what about a spot of supper and a cabaret? They've got a marvellous show at the Ducks and Drakes."

"Lovely," said Gay.

The Ducks and Drakes had a very good floor. People were telling each other that it was the best floor in London. There was a new sort of cocktail, and a new colored dancer—"Simply too marvelous, my dear— her boa-constrictor dance—well, no bones at all! The most amazing thing!" This being the case, the floor naturally was so crowded that for the most part you did not so much dance as oscillate gently to the strains of the latest swing tune.

Gay and Algy oscillated with the rest. When the music stopped they found two chairs. There were quite a lot of well-known people in the room.

"That's Mrs. Parkington who broke the women's altitude record the other day," Algy said. "They says she's an awfully good sort. And that's Parkington with her. And that's Jessie Linklater, the new tap-dancer. And the woman with red hair who has just come in is Poppy Wessex-Gardner."

FLOOD CONTROL EASY TASK WITH ENOUGH FUNDS

Tributary Reservoirs, Floodwalls Would Solve Ohio Problems, Engineers Say.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of two stories describing the program, problems, and principles of the U. S. army engineers in their work on flood control in the Ohio valley.)
etaoin etaom etaoin etaom unn

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Army engineers, viewing the flood control program calmly as a whole, work out their broad, complex program as a synthesis of all known checks on and defenses against the Ohio river.

If money were no consideration, an Ohio river division spokesman ventured, they could build a series of tributary reservoirs in the valley which would cut flood crests 10 feet from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati, five to six feet at Louisville, three to four feet at Evansville and Paducah, and two to three feet at Cairo.

"We also would build the most beautiful floodwalls everywhere they were needed," he added, "to give the greatest possible protection." (He meant "beautiful" in an engineering sense—effective.)

But, he estimated, this would cost roughly a half billion dollars. (Chairman Whittington (D-Miss) of the house flood control committee said last week a bill for a $300,000,000 to $800,0000,000 nationwide program would be drafted within two weeks.) Meanwhile they go ahead with the funds available, planning their projects where each will do the most good.

Reservoirs Best.

"Around Pittsburgh," the spokesman said, "reservoirs will serve their best purpose. There they will protect best because of the numerous tributary rivers converging in a small area.

(The Tygart dam and reservoir on the Monongahela river has been completed, and work is under way on the Tionesta and Crooked Creek dams. All three are above Pittsburgh.)

"On down the river, we must protect the cities with floodwalls, meanwhile taking advantage of such lowering of crests as other proposed tributary reservoirs may effect, and any benefits from reforestation that may come.

"Some smaller towns, like Shawneetown (Ill.) can be moved back into the hills." (Shawneetown already is being moved.)

At present, the engineers are pointing to protect the valley from a flood greater than any known. The planned floodwalls for the vicinity of Cincinnati will be built to a gauge height of 83.7 feet here, over three feet higher than the record and as high as the engineers consider possible with the reservoirs planned in operation under worst conditions of rainfall and run-off.

The whole program is started, but many men will not live to see it finished. If only engineering difficulties confronted the engineers, the job would be done quickly.

But first comes the problem of funds. The comprehensive program would cost uncounted millions of dollars. The most generous congressman must think before he votes to appropriate what is really needed.

Then, the communities to be protected must contribute necessary rights of way, property, and easements at their own expense. It is a slow process, hampered by disagreements, in many cases.

But the engineers are determined to see it through, in the next generation if not in this.

FINED, TAKEN TO WORKHOUSE

Woman Pleads Guilty, Companion to Face Two Charges.

A Mansfield woman was ordered committed to the Toledo workhouse yesterday to work out a $50 fine for keeping a disorderly house while her woman companion who entered an innocent plea on two different charges will face Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court tomorrow.

Minnie Morgan, rear of 256 North Franklin street, arrested by detectives Saturday night at 57 East Sixth street, pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $50 and costs. Unable to pay the fine she was ordered committed to the workhouse.

Her colored woman companion, who gave the name of Sarah Mansfield, arrested at the same address, entered a plea of innocent to a charge of keeping a disorderly house and to the illegal sale of beer. Hearing for the case was set for 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

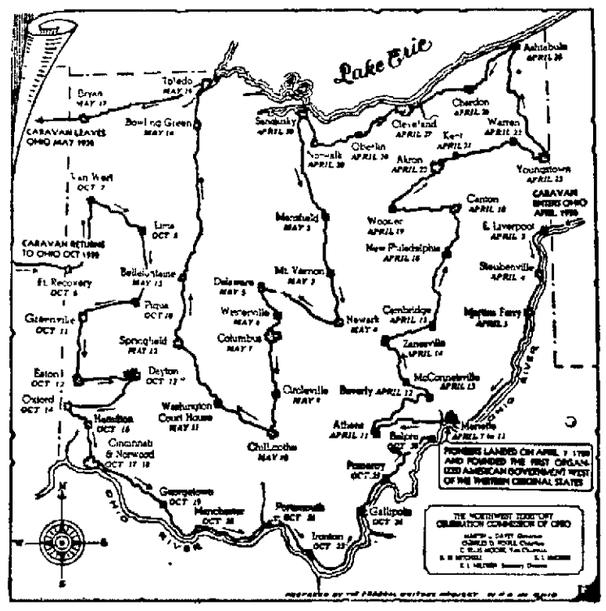
Upper left, Ohio company land office, said to be the oldest building still standing west of the Allegheny mountains; lower left, Frank Schafer, as Gen. Rufus Putnam, left, founder and guide of the Ohio company, smokes the peace pipe with Jacob Heldman as Chief of Pipes; upper right, Marjory McKenna, selected as "Miss Marietta," presiding as "queen" of the pageant; lower right, the route of the pioneer caravan which is retracing the journey of the first pioneer group to settle in this territory. The caravan arrives in Mansfield May 2, and will participate in the city's celebration.



Thousands of visitors jam Marietta at the junction of the Muskingum river with the Ohio, for the 150 anniversary of the founding of the first settlement in the Northwest territory. Highlight of the celebration, April 6-10, shown at a pre-view, are historical pageants, particularly one showing the works of the Ohio company, organized by Gen Rufus Putnam, whose purpose was to establish homes and to found a new state. Marjory McKenna was chosen to preside as queen over the celebration with the title of "Miss Marietta." Marietta was the pioneer settlement in the territory.

Commissioners Approve Assessments for Township Ditch.

Assessments totaling $900 against 15 property owners for construction of the Hartman ditch in Sharon township were approved yesterday by the board of county commissioners, following a hearing at the courthouse.

Actual construction of the drainage ditch, which is about 7,000 feet long, will be delayed until a report from WPA officials on the application for a ditch project in the county and minor shifts in assessments, C. L. Mitchel, chairman of the commissioners, said.

Mrs. Fred J. Keck, Jr., 371 Maple Avenue

Newark, Ohio, says:—
"Had large Electrolux several months . . . noticed no increase in gas bill. Absolutely quiet. Keeps food perfectly. Don't hesitate to boost it."

Mrs. George S. Funderburg, 1605 E. Mound

Springfield, Ohio, says:—
"Separate refrigerator meter showed 11,720 feet of gas in year. Cost $7.03 a year, 13½ cents a week."

Save Three Ways

The saving of gas refrigeration that you probably hear the most about is its low operating cost — less than two cents a day, using high grade gas. Another big saving is made possible by the complete absence of moving parts in the freezing system — nothing to wear out and require replacement. Also, this dependable automatic refrigeration reduces food spoilage and enables you to buy perishables in quantities at special prices. These are cash in-the-pocket savings, but there is another you will appreciate. It saves on nerves because it is silent. See the beautiful 1938 model Servel Electrolux refrigerators at The Gas Company. Find out how easily you can pay for one out of the savings it will make for you.

FHA DEVELOPS NEW PROCEDURE OF APPRAISALS

System of Capitalizing Gross Rents Will Supplement Former Method.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Federal Housing Administration has developed the procedure of making appraisals of dwellings by capitalizing the gross rents, it was announced today by Frederick M. Babcock, director of FHA's underwriting division.

In arriving at the gross rental on dwellings, the method depends largely on the consumer appeal factors which influence dwelling purchases and a measure is made of those factors which tend to render greater service to owner-occupants than to tenant-occupants, Babcock said. Thus, it will be seen that the gross monthly rental value is greater to a typical buyer interested in owner-occupancy than to a typical buyer interested in landlord ownership. This greater value to a typical owner-occupant is known as an amenity-increment in the system and is expressed as a percentage over the rental value to a typical landlord, according to Babcock.

Not Replacement.

The new method, arrived at after more than three years' experience by the Federal Housing administration with over a quarter million residential mortgages accepted for insurance, does not replace the present appraisal and valuation system pioneered by FHA. It will, however, serve to further reduce the possibility of error, according to Babcock, and is being installed as standard procedure in all insuring offices as rapidly as possible.

"Appraisal methods in the past gave too little consideration to the type and kind of home Mr. and Mrs. America actually wanted, and would buy," Babcock said. "Too little consideration was also given to the extra services or amenities which an owner-occupant actually receives as compared with those according to a tenant-occupant. These amenities, in the case of owner-occupants can be broken down into broad classifications which include: (1) Pride of ownership; (2) freedom of action, and (3) sense of security. Through its experience in accepting a quarter of a million residential mortgages for insurance, FHA has been able to measure these amenity values.

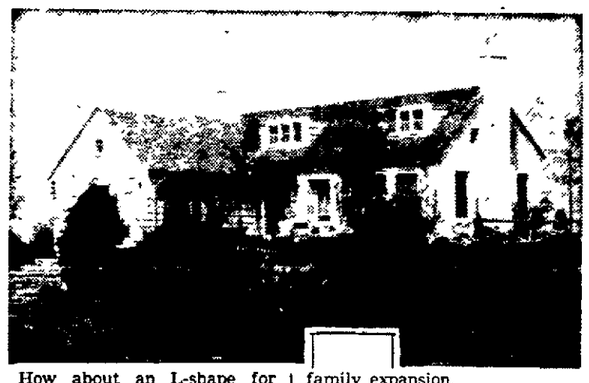
Hilltop House Uses L-Plan



How about an L-shape for that house you're planning?

Here is a good example of this type, built on a hilltop site in Iowa.

A center hallway runs through the house. The living room is on one side, the dining alcove and kitchen on the other. Three bedrooms and bath are compactly arranged at one end. And upstairs two unfinished bedrooms and a bath provide for future family expansion.

The walls are of white-painted brick and white shingles, with dark shutters and roof for contrast. The trellis and the railing about the broad terraces are effective details. The garage is below the bedroom wing.

Designed by Bruce and Kenneth McKay, this house was chosen by The American Home, 444 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS GIVE TIMELY HINTS FOR BUILDERS

Q. Where should I locate a warm-air heating plant with gravity circulation? My house is square and has seven rooms.

A. The proper location for a warm air furnace is generally as near the center of the house as possible. Leader pipes from the furnace to the base of the wall stacks should not be longer than eight inches. If longer leaders are necessary, they should be thoroughly covered or the vertical stacks should be increased in area.

Q. What is a good material to use for covering the floor on a sundeck which is over a porch?

A. Canvas is a good material for this purpose. Before applying the canvas, paint the wood deck with a good coat of pure linseed oil and white lead. Apply the canvas before this has had a chance to dry. Paint the canvas with two coats of good deck paint, allowing the first coat to dry thoroughly before applying the second.

Q. How can I give a clear-glass window the effect of frosted glass but not shut off the light?

A. Clean the panes thoroughly of all dirt or grease and cut pieces of tissue paper to fit exactly; hold them against the glass and cover them with a good spar varnish. The varnish will waterproof the paper and hold it in position. This will insure privacy and still permit adequate light.

Q. The inlaid linoleum in our kitchen is bulging. What can we do about it? Some of those bulges are at the joints and some are not.

A. Where the linoleum has come loose it has stretched and will consequently tend to bulge. The most satisfactory answer to your problem is to remove the linoleum and relay it, using a good linoleum cement.

Q. At what temperature should a room be kept while the woodwork is being varnished?

A. The temperature of a room in which woodwork is being varnished should not be allowed to drop below 50° F.

Q. What would be a satisfactory filler for cracks in the floor?

A. Various plastic materials may be used, such as plastic wood, glue and sawdust, putty and various patented compounds, which can be obtained at practically any paint store. If the cracks are wide, it may be necessary to install strips of wood.

WALLPAPER FOR SHELVE LINING

A vivid wallpaper makes an interesting lining for built-in bookshelves. Old-fashioned glass-doored bookcases may be modernized by taking off the doors, retouching the woodwork and either painting or papering the inside of the shelves.

KITCHEN FANS

Kitchen odors can be eliminated from the kitchen by use of an exhaust fan installed in the wall, window, or even in the transom over the door. This device is also an aid to cooling the kitchen in Summer.

WHEN the World received it's heritage of natural resources, Nature provided vast domains of forests composed of trees of many species. This was as it should be for the product of the forests was destined to lend itself more readily to a greater multiplicity of the vital needs of our everyday life than likely would any of the other of the natural resources.
Not the least of these uses is lumber for structural purposes and a specie for each structural need has been provided.
Use wood, as nature intended, for your structural needs and some of the dividends will be materials of lasting qualities, friendliness, warmth cheerfulness and beauty.
Consult your local lumberman in your structural problems as you do your physician in cases of illness.

- 14⅞ inches of wood has more insulating value than 10 feet of solid concrete.
- The "termite scare" may be forgotten by an expenditure of less than $10.00 when your house is being built.
- Full cellars are necessary to real comfort in this climate.
- The majority of fires start on the inside of a home.
- A frame house can be readily repaired after a fire, and alterations and additions may be made at a reasonable cost.
- Lumber, used from time immemorial, has proven its permanence, durability, and its adaptability to any type of architecture.
- Almost any kind of material can be used to construct a house but only wood lends that indescribable character which converts a house into a home.

CLAIMS DROP

$268 In Animal Losses For First Quarter Approved.

Animal claims totaling $268 for the first quarter of 1938, the lowest for a three-month period in more than a year, had been approved today by Richland county commissioners.

The losses were included in 16 claims, the largest of which was for $76, submitted by J. C Eckert.

Claims, most of which cover the loss of sheep killed by dogs, are paid from dog license receipts. The losses for the first quarter of this year are $28 less than for the same period in 1937 and far below the $1,109 paid to farmers the last quarter of last year.

The decrease was believed the result of a campaign against stray dogs by Dog Warden William Miller and the fact that sheep are confined more closely during the winter months.

SOLD BY SHERIFF

56-Acre Farm Purchased by Shelby Man for $3,452.

E. E. Barkdull, Shelby undertaker, purchased a 56-acre farm in Sharon township for $3,452 at a sheriff's sale at the courthouse.

Appraised at $3,800, the property was sold on a foreclosure judgment for $795 obtained by Katie Stiving against Rheabelle Cline, administratrix of the estate of George Klinkle, deceased.

MANY AILMENTS OF OCCASIONAL CONSTIPATION YIELD TO NEW WORLD'S TONIC RELIEF

Akron Lady Gets Respite From Stomach and Kidney Disorders—Grateful for Laxative Value of Famous Medicine's Aid in Preventing Common Colds.

Disease germs are like parasites. They attach themselves, at times to people, and thrive and fatten often through carelessness as well as anything else. Webster says a parasite is a hanger-on. When common colds bring on a cough that hangs on, a starting factor may have been carelessness about occasional constipation. Many of you know only too well the frightful possibilities of these hacking coughs that hang on. If not, with the sincere hope that you may never know, we offer the laxative value of the Famous Worlds Tonic in preventing this hanger-on from gaining a foothold by way of the common cold, induced by constipation. Keep your bowels open and the door shut to this type of parasites.

And now an Akron lady, Mrs. Helen Taylor of 46 E. State St., Akron, Ohio, tells how she regards it a pleasant duty to tell her friends about the merits of World's Tonic and what it has done for her.

"I'm going to regard it as a pleasant duty to recommend World's Tonic to all my friends who have the same ailments as I had. A prolonged state of constipation had aggravated a weak kidney and stomach condition that was distressing in many ways to me. I was badly discouraged from trying so many different kinds of medicines without relief. I tried salts, calomel and oils and even watched my diet. But gas, acid, and bloating brought on alarming heart palpitation. Then too, there'd be belching and shortness of breath. I had rheumatic like pains in my back and limbs and caught common cold at the slightest provocation. Often a hacking cough would result and hang on for days with dreadful mucous making me miserably uncomfortable My first bottle of World's Tonic was a revelation and I bought six more to give it a real chance. In a few weeks time my constipation was so pleasantly better and all its results so nicely relieved that I feel the least I can do is tell all my friends how much good it has done for me. Aches and pains are gone. My stomach and kidneys feel much better and I'm not catching cold so easily and often any more."

(Note Mrs. Taylors' reference to the laxative value of World's Tonic in common cold prevention).

World's Tonic contains roots, barks, herbs and leaves brought here from many different countries of the old world, because although they may grow in the United States many such ingredients lack the medicinal values and are entirely different in content, action and result of those growing in old world climates. Thus we find in World's Tonic many medicinal qualities produced by nature before science, yet taking their place with modern medical science of the present.

TUESDAY, APRIL 5, 1938.

April has thus far given indications of settling down to a spell of March weather.

A "recession" is so much like a "depression" that it takes a learned politician to explain the difference.

Wherever you go you'll find "strangers"—until you get acquainted with them—and then you'll find they're very much like "home folks."

Your Suggestions Are Invited.

MANY matters of quite general public interest are being thought about and discussed in Mansfield just now—matters that will have an influence on the immediate and more remote future of this city and vicinity.

Some of these things have been discussed at Town Hall meetings and have been given attention by the Chamber of Commerce, city officials and various club groups.

Action along progressive lines in any city is largely dependent on expression of widespread approval by citizens of the community. There can be no real progress unless majority public sentiment gives endorsement to various proposals for civic betterment.

The News-Journal repeats its invitation to readers to write letters of 300 words, or shorter, for use in the Readers Forum, expressing their views on any subject of general interest in and around Mansfield.

Constructive suggestions will be especially appreciated at this particular time. The name and address of the writer should be given with the letter, as anonymously expressed views are not convincing.

Lives Saved By Careful Driving.

MANSFIELD and Richland county are glad to join with a number of other Ohio cities and counties in reporting a reduction in traffic deaths for the first three months in 1938, as compared with the same period last year.

Any material cut in traffic accidents can be brought about only by more careful driving, more rigid enforcement of traffic regulations and requirement for better training of new drivers—together with permanent revocation of licenses of persons who show themselves to be either mentally or physically unfit for such responsibility.

The "continuous campaign" of enforcement, rather than sporadic "drives," have proved most effectual in bringing about greater uniformity of careful driving in Ohio cities.

An urgent need in Mansfield is for several more patrolmen in the police department—to be available for traffic duty when needed—and for closer surveillance of speeders on highways in the immediate vicinity of the city—with better understanding among motorists that 35 miles per hour is the maximum speed permitted within the city limits.

Duce Turns From Fuehrer.

APPARENTLY "the die is cast" by Mussolini, too, as it was by Julius Caesar in a historic crisis. In his latest utterance the Duce said:

"My policy has been to render Italy more efficient and more fear-inspiring in all its armed forces. I have provided Italy with a guarantee of security.

"When our frontiers become hermetically sealed, as is being done throughout the entire semicircle of our border (around the northern end), the Alps will have been made uncrossable not only in winter, but in all seasons."

And against whom should Italy's northern border be sealed? Whom but Hitler and his Nazis? The implication is plain enough, and the sealing of the Brenner Pass, the funnel from southern Germany to Italy, is logical enough.

Mussolini, with his rear protected, will turn southward, making himself safe in the Mediterranean, extending his territory perhaps in northern Africa and safeguarding his water route to Ethiopia. And in doing so, he seems to be snuggling up to Great Britain. They will operate the Mediterranean and its outlets together. It is probably the best thing for both of them. And because it takes a powerful ally from Hitler, it may be the best thing for Europe.

Free State Feeds.

MEMBERS of congress naturally take a good deal of pride in their states and state products. They believe in advertising and also, like many other human beings, they enjoy showing off now and then. That mood is the origin of the "free lunch" counter set up occasionally on Capitol Hill, to which proud legislators invite their colleagues to sample delicacies from back home.

It is an old congressional custom, but has been particularly in evidence this year, with rivalry among statesmen running strong. So far, it is reported, guests have been treated to Rhode Island oysters, Texas grapefruit, Wisconsin cheeses, New Jersey champagne, Louisiana chicken gumbo soup with deep-dish apple pie, Washington state salmon and baby alligators from Florida. The last-named were not for consumption.

This should be as much fun as the covered dish sociable of the ladies' aid society and other church auxiliaries. What a banquet could be spread if all the states were represented in one great feast!

Undersea Jobs.

HEAVY drags of fishing boats off the Irish coast have been damaging an Atlantic cable. Now something is to be done about it. A ditch will be plowed in the ocean floor, the cable neatly placed in it and covered. The job will be done with a specially devised plow hung on a 1,200-foot metal chain.

It sounds like a neat operation and an undersea activity more worthy of human intelligence than firing torpedoes from submarines. The submarine is a marvellous invention, requiring knowledge and skill in its designing, building and operating. It is also a stupid invention, because it destroys commerce.

Human ability to invent, construct and learn is almost limitless. Human intelligence and discrimination, however, do not seem equal to the task of directing and using man's amazing powers for his advancement.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

A GREAT, changing society, this America. Foreign lands barely know it. An article in the London Times on how to travel in America brings this to mind. Compressed into less than a column are directions—and most of them inadequate, wholly uncomprehensive of this vast nation.

People in Germany, Poland and Italy scarcely hear of us any more. We are considered "too radical." President Roosevelt's speeches and messages are barred as "undesirable literature"—at least in Germany.

But we should believe that England would know us. It does not. It believes we think in the English mold, because we speak the same tongue. But the same tongue may not always be the same language.

MORE CULTURE

Once Europe looked upon the United States as crude, undeveloped culturally. And Europe was correct. But, today, in the swiftly changing currents of our time, and in the exchange of surcharged emotions, a strongly international culture is developing in the United States. The "melting pot" has fused a people with a broadened mind—and the old Americans, provincial and fearful of contacts, are giving way to new Americans who, although living to themselves, have minds that reach far afield.

It is true that there are sharply divided forces in America, and a reactionism that at times frightens. But the very sharpness of the combat indicates a people alive. There may still be periods of dark reactionism, but the whole body of the people is moving in vastly broader fields.

One has merely to observe the broad catholiticity of the New York stage, the outspoken articles in newspaper and magazine and the debates on the radio to comprehend the difference between past ages and this—and lands closed to thought, and this.

One of the best examples of developing culture is seen in grand opera. Not only are seasons in New York phenomenally successful, but records are broken also in Boston, Cleveland, Rochester. This year Cleveland is destined to break even its own record of last year, for the largest attendance ever recorded for a week of opera. And that occures in spite of a depression which affects every strata of the population.

CHANGE ABROAD, TOO

One cannot imagine either Germany or Italy remaining in bondage under bombastic, warlike dictators. Both those nations have deep cultural backgrounds—and Germany, in particular, has bred great intellectual revolutionists.

But what is occurring in Germany may be a form of revolution, a changing of old Europe into a revitalized new Europe, through the most harrowing forms of evolutian. Changes seldom come gently.

Germany is undergoing such a vast change for a people so unaccustomed to radical change that no one can predict the end, nor the counter-reaction. It would be strange, if within the next decade or two, when Hitler has fallen, Germany would come forth as the chief purely socialistic nation (the opposite of what it is now), while Russia would emerge as one of the great conservative powers.

TO RIGHT AN ERROR?

There is an interesting letter to the London Times by Lord Lothian concerning the "error" of the Versailles treaty—probably the greatest error ever perpetrated in history.

Says Lord Lothian:

"The incorporation of Austria in the German Reich transforms the European situation in more than one way. The most important single aspect is that at long last it ends the disastrous period when the League of Nation powers attempted, in the name of the covenant to deny to the Germans, who were certainly not solely responsible for the great war, their national unity and so drove them to accept a totalitarian regime as the one method by which they might recover their unity and their natural rights, at a fearful price in the destruction of individual freedom at home and in the return to power politics in international affairs.

"The remaining issues between Berlin and Rome and their neighbors, for instance the future of German minorities, the colonial question, and the Mediterranean issues, can now, I think, become the subject of negotiation on equal terms, but only if we and the other democracies show not only physical strength but moral discipline and resolution.

"If the era of bringing about overdue international changes in Europe is to be replaced by one in which revisions are to be made by consent it will only be because those who are inclined to resort to power diplomacy realize that adventures in that field spell war. For general war is the one thing that every nation fears, totalitarian no less than democratic, not only because of the suffering it entails, but because it would involve every existing regime in ruin."

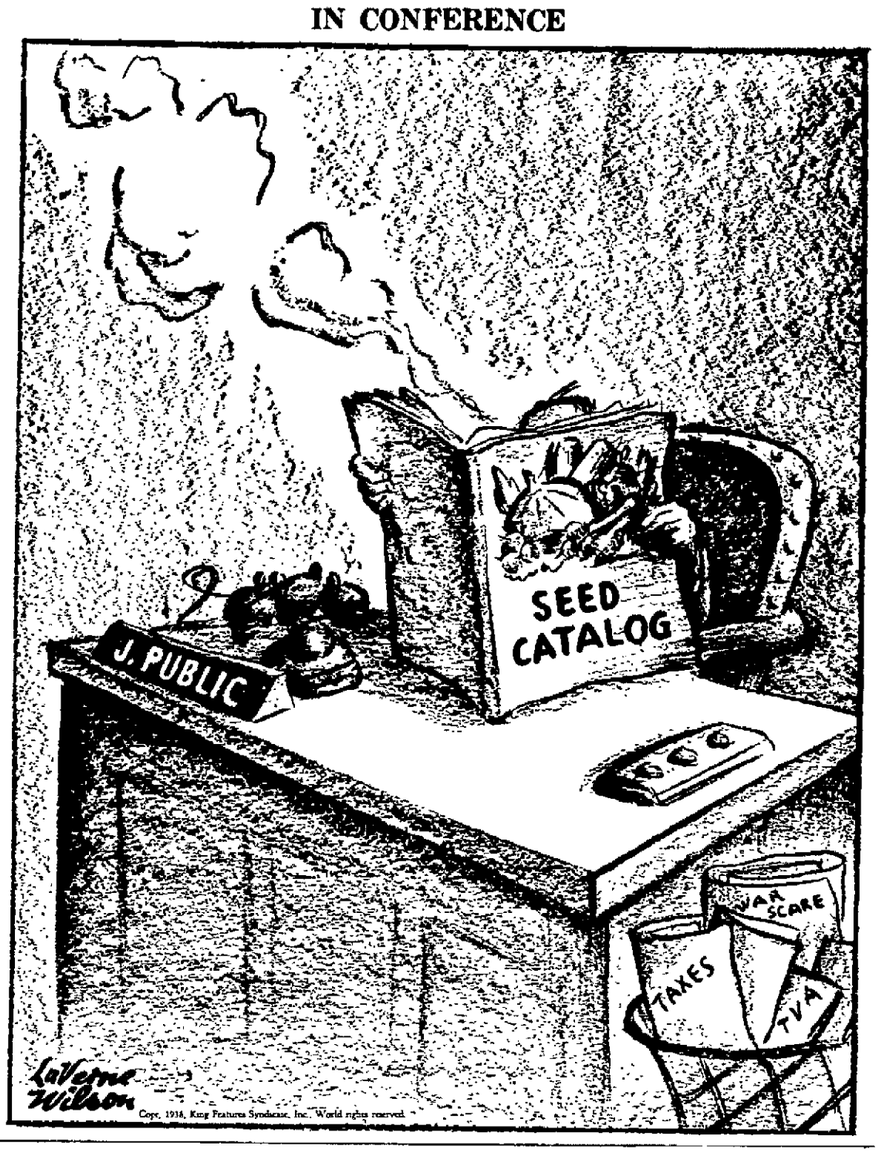
IN CONFERENCE



Waterway To Bring Realization of Ambition

—By DEWITT MACKENZIE

NEW YORK — When history finally appraises Adolf Hitler's regime it easily may record that he could have done few things contributing more to the might of Germany than bring to fruition the thousand-year-old German dream of a navigable waterway through the heart of Europe.

Hitler's dictatorship has provided such a rapid succession of epochal events that it is hard for the outside world to recognize another milestone in anything so prosaic as a waterway.

Still, there is vast importance in the announcement that work is to be rushed on the canal which will connect the Rhine and Danube rivers, thus providing a passage for ships a distance of some 2,500 miles from the Baltic to the Black sea.

This will mark a seven-league stride in der fuehrer's program for the creation of a great Germanic confederation.

* * *

THE significance of the river project is this:

It will open up an Arabian Nights treasure house of commerce for Germany throughout the Balkans and near east.

It will enable her to undersell competing countries because of cheap transportation and easy access to markets.

It will give her the materials she needs to make her independent of other powers.

It will be of invaluable assistance to her in extending her economic and political dominance in the Balkans.

Take one item alone—though a most important one—that of the wheat, for lack of which Germany went hungry during the World war. The Danubian states grow more of this grain than any of the so-called big wheat countries, barring the United States.

A lot of experts were amazed in 1933 when the world wheat conference in London told the story of the production in the Danubian territory. The so-called "big four" in wheat production are the United States, Canada, the Argentine and Australia.

But Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria together have been growing some 300,000,000 bushels of wheat annually. This is half the American crop, and more than is grown by any of the others of the big four.

* * *

THE mighty Danube will open up a lot of territory for Germany. It flows from Germany across Austria, along part of the Czechoslovakian border, through Hungary, across a corner of Yugoslavia, along the Rumanian-Bulgarian border, and through Rumania to the Black sea. Sixty navigable streams join it from the north and south.

Control of this waterway and of the Balkans would make Germany virtually invulnerable in war, so far as supplies are concerned.

During the World war the Danube was of great military importance, and might be again. Germany proposes to reorganize her Danubian naval forces.

The Rhine is at present the most important river commercially in Europe, though Germany's new set-up on the Danube may change that. Many big industrial cities lie along the Rhine and its tributaries.

International Angles Complicate World Fair

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON— Probably it was inevitable that the 1939 New York world's fair and Grover Whalen should become involved in international affairs. Now that they have, Mr. Whalen, whose efforts in other fields have been almost Napoleonic, is trying to wash his hands of that aspect of fair promotion and allow Secretary Hull to bear the brunt.

Mr. Whalen came to Washington to show President Roosevelt some of the plans for spending the $3,000,000 contributed by the federal government to make a tourists delight of Flushing meadows, where the fair is to be. The plans are handsome no end, and so is Mr. Whalen.

After he emerged from the president's office he stopped in the general White House reception room to show the plans to reporters and to explain some of the business about the fair. It was at that point that we discovered Mr. Whalen's interest in international affairs.

UP TO MR. HULL.

The Nazi anschluss was kept a long distance from American shores for the most part, but it reverberated in Flushing meadows. When Hitler anschlussed Austria, he liquidated one of Mr. Whalen's most interesting customers. Prior to the anschluss, Mr. Whalen had promises from 64 nations to prepare exhibits for the fair. Austria, one of the 64, had about it some of the perfume of the Balkans and the Orient and might have been expected to contribute an exotic note the like of which can not come from Germany, even when the anschluss is included.

For all practical purposes Mr. Whalen has written Austria off his list although officially he won't take such a telling step as that until Secretary Hull has sanctioned the anschluss, which he has not yet, not fully.

But that is not all. There is the Spanish affair. Mr. Whalen barely had outlined his fair program than General Franco, head of the Insurgents, put in a bid for space. We didn't learn whether Mr. Whalen invited General Franco to participate. Mr. Whalen was in unfamiliar surroundings in Washington and among unfamiliar questioners and chose to discuss the safer subjects of dioramas and park entrances.

We did learn that he is withholding acceptance of the Franco exhibit. To accept might imply recognition of the Franco regime, and Mr. Whalen was chary of taking such a step.

"That is a matter which Secretary Hull must settle," he said.

LITTLE MAN.

We had never seen Mr. Whalen before except in the news reels and the Sunday supplement. We were not in the least disappointed in him, although we had to revise statistics about him we had conjured up mentally.

In pictures he looks as tall as the masts beside which he used to pose while on the way down New York harbor to greet some incoming notable. Those were in the days when he was the official New York City greeter of persons and things coming from Europe. But he was shorter by an inch than most of the reporters who interviewed him here and is a bit on the stocky side. He has a voice as soft as glove lining and a moustache about midway between Hitler and Groucho Marx.

But his title surpasses that of the redoubtable Field Marshal Goering. Mr. Whalen's title is commissioner general.

Timely Editorial

Increasing Oppression.

With his acquisition of Austria the Hitler horror is descending to greater depths. The civilized world stands amazed at the extremes to which the reich dictator is going in his hatred of Jews and Christian peoples.

That he is building a wall of hatred in the world outside of his own territories is beyond question.

Every day now comes news stories of the atrocities practiced upon the Jews of Austria, recently cast to the Hitler wolf. Their synagogues are closed, their business houses are robbed and the owners expelled from the property. Eminent men of learning and culture are required to perform menial tasks in cleaning streets. All this but preliminary to the expulsion of the entire Jewish population from the country, with all its attendant cruelty and ruthlessness.

But the Hitler purge is not confined to the 200,000 Jews in Austria. Notwithstanding the promises he has made with reference to future actions against Roman Catholics, there is every reason to believe that the 6,000,000 members of that faith in Austria are to be subjected to the same treatment as their brethren in Germany have received during the past few years. Hitler has promised more moderate treatment, but Hitler is shifty and no dependence can be placed upon his word.

Where this man with continent-wide ambitions to rule will stop in his increased oppression of all those who disagree with him cannot be foreseen.

But certain it is that he will go on until the oppressed people rise in their wrath and dispose of him. Hitler cannot fight religion and ultimately win. — Miami (Fla.) Herald.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Quintessence.

Quintessence—today, it means the most essential part or manifestation of any thing or quality; originally, it was something else again.

The followers of Pythagorus, the great Greek philosopher, added a fifth element to the four that the savants of the time acknowledged.

The four they knew were earth, air, fire and water.

The fifth element that the Pythagorians added they called quintessense—a word they coined by combining the medieval Latin quinta, fifth, and essentia, element.

Quintessence was supposed to be the celestial essence, so pure and subtle that it flew upward at creation and formed the stars.

Conceived to be latent in all substances, its extraction by distillation or otherwise, was one of the absorbing aims of the alchemists of old.

THE LORD IS MY SHEPHERD.

(Like some poor sheep, I wander with the human flock not knowing why I am nor where I go. I cannot see God's face nor hear His voice, for I am blind with ignorance and deaf with doubt and fear. Yet, as sheep feel the shepherd's guiding will, so do I feel a Force behind my life, and dimly sense a Purpose and a Plan. And when I falter, something in me cries—"Go on! You are not lost—the Shepherd knows the fold to which you go.")

I SHALL NOT WANT.

(My body may know poverty and pain. But God has placed within me secret springs which shall sustain me when I'm poor and weak. I still have Beauty, when my gold is gone, and Friendship, when my pantry shelf is bare, and Courage, like red wine, to warm my soul.)

HE MAKETH ME TO LIE DOWN IN GREEN PASTURES: HE LEADETH ME BESIDE STILL WATERS.

(Earth pastures wither when the Winters come. Earth waters dry when Springtime rains are done. But love has pastures which are ever green and Faith has fountains which no drought can seal.)

HE RESTORETH MY SOUL: HE LEADETH ME IN THE PATHS OF RIGHTEOUSNESS FOR HIS NAME'S SAKE.

(Two selves live in me, one a greedy brute, the other a bright stranger, whom I call my Soul. But something draws it back to me again, and turns my face once more to SEEK THE TRUTH.)

YEA, THOUGH I WALK THROUGH THE VALLEY OF THE SHADOW OF DEATH I WILL FEAR NO EVIL; FOR THOU ART WITH ME; THY ROD AND THY STAFF THEY COMFORT ME.

(There are so many deaths in every life. Death of our loved ones—death of cherished dreams—death of our pride and confidence and peace. But bright against the shadows blazes Hope. For always after night the morning comes, and always after winter comes the spring. And not one grain of sand is ever lost. Shall man, alone, be wasted from God's hand?)

THOU PREPAREST A TABLE BEFORE ME IN THE PRESENCE OF MINE ENEMIES: THOU ANOINTEST MY HEAD WITH OIL; MY CUP RUNNETH OVER.

("Mine enemies" — they are those foes that live within mine own self—my hate and fear, my envy and conceit, how often they have won the victory! But when I catch a vision of the truth and lift myself higher from the mire, then, for a time, I'm freed from my base self, and I know the pride and joy of some great conqueror.)

SURELY GOODNESS AND MERCY SHALL FOLLOW ME ALL THE DAYS OF MY LIFE, AND I WILL DWELL IN THE HOUSE OF THE LORD FOREVER.

("My Father's house" — that's not some strange, far place, but just the common world in which I spend my days. All of my life are His arching rooms. My life is built into His living walls. All that I am or do is part of Him. His mercy comprehends my blundering. His goodness girds His weak and stupid child. I cannot go so far that He is left behind.

(So, though I do not know the how or why, and though I never yet have seen His Face, I need not fear. For where life goes, I go, and life is God. And I am part of His eternal mystery.)

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If you could see and hear the boys scrambling after Indian head pennies you would understand how thoroughly numismatology has caught on in New York. Like mah jong, which sizzled through the early twenties like a fantastic Oriental fever, the pastime of coin-collecting is affecting its adherents with the same bright-eyed, jittery fervor.

In Broadway cafe bars and South street subway trains strangers are comparing Liberty nickels and mumbling into their beards about commemorative half-dollars. The 1922 Lincoln penny with the D (Denver) mint mark has replaced Dizzy Dean as a surefire topic of conversation, and wherever you go you are sure to have drilled into your ears the same old sad refrain: "Buddy can you spare an 1893 dime?"

Your correspondent spent an hour today with a man who makes a lucrative business of buying and selling coins, and that there is much to be said in favor of this pleasant mania can not be denied by any reasonable person. Here are a few items concerning once plentiful but now elusive coins, including that fascinating symbol of vanishing Americana, the Indian head penny.

THE first coin minted in this country was the Pine Tree shilling, struck by Massachusetts in 1652, and today if you wish to add it to your collection it will cost you $12.50 to $20, depending on the condition of the coin. . . .

The reason you find more 1919 Lincoln head pennies is because 392,000,000 poured from the mints at one time . . . probably no 5-cent piece is more valuable than the 1913 Liberty nickel, of which only six were minted . . . as for the Indian head penny, it was designed by J. B. Longacre in 1864. . . . The first Liberty nickels were struck in 1883. . . . Commemorative half-dollars are juicy items with most collectors and involve a considerable outlay of cash. . . . For instance, the Grant memorial half dollar with a star costs $60. . . . It will cost you a tidy $17 to add an Alabama memorial coin to your portfolio. . . . A surprisingly cheap buy is the Lincoln head half-dollar, which retails for only $1.

THEN there are the attractive coins struck as memorials to to War between the States . . . the battle of Gettysburg, the battles of Antietam, Stone Mountain and others are available at small cost, and they comprise the most attractive group of coins to be had.

Perhaps you will fancy the Benjamin Franklin copper, in which case you should get ready to shell cut $2.50. . . . The pewter dollar authorized by the Continental Congress (1776) is fetching $15. . . . And two copper coins, known appropriately as the Silly Head and the Booby Head (1839) are itemed at a lowly 50c each.

Of course, the dream way to collect coins is to wait for them to turn up in circulation; then you aren't out anything. But if you are in a hurry to get started, don't look for them in the drugstore change booths or in dime store counters . . . chances are the sales girl who makes your change is a dyed-in-the wool collector too.

MASTERING YOUR WORK

The hurly-burly of the days
Disturbed him not for he
Had of his work complete command
Assuring mastery.

To conquer any piece of work,
By knowing it, will make
It easy, and a pleasure,too,
In mastery you take.

Efficiency means even more
To him who does the task
Than to employers who this skill
Most certainly must ask.

The satisfaction of a task
You know is perfectly
Accomplished—that brings mind's content,
The true security.

SLUM CLEARING BOARD ELECTS, PLANS SURVEY

Kyle Named to Head Citizens' Committee to Check Need For Program Here.

Plans for an "early meeting" of a citizens' committee named by Mayor Claude M. Hunter to conduct a slum clearance survey here were being arranged today by George C. Kyle, named president of the group yesterday.

As their first step towards conducting a slum clearance program in Mansfield, the five-man committee met with Hunter yesterday and selected officers.

In the meeting which lasted nearly two hours in the mayor's office, the group selected Kyle, real estate dealer and city councilman, as president. A. J. Duffy, a building contractor, associated with the building trades council, was named vice president, and Charles W. Conklin, an architect, was selected as secretary and treasurer. Other members of the committee are E. B. Kallmerten, chairman of the Richland county Democratic executive committee and building supply dealer, and John A. Massa, jr., secretary of the Citizens Saving and Loan company.

Will Compile Data.

In order to get the survey started at once, Kyle said the group would hold an early meeting for the purpose of compiling data to be presented to the state housing board to show that the city is in need of a share of the $65,000,000 allocated to Ohio for slum clearance.

Kyle said the group yesterday was given an outline of the program by Mayor Hunter who had visited Toledo to look over a project now under construction in that city.

He explained that before the citizens' committee would hold a meeting, all members had agreed to familiarize themselves with the state statutes concerning the slum clearance project and to study projects now under construction in other Ohio cities.

The survey to be conducted by the group, he said, would consist of poor housing conditions, along with present fire hazards, sanitation and juvenile delinquency.

GIRL, 7, STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Suffers Leg Fracture While Crossing Intersection.

Margaret Stull, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan E. Stull, 117 Bowman street, was in the General hospital today with a fractured leg, sustained when struck by an automobile while on her way home from school yesterday.

Police said the girl was struck by an auto driven by C. A. Friddell, 161 West Fifth street, when she failed to heed the warning of a schoolboy patrolman at West Fifth and Bowman streets.

Officers were told that the child dashed into the street and ran in front of the car while the driver was going through the intersection on a green light.

A Farmer's Diary

April 4.

FROM my window I saw a boy of seven, clad heavily in winter clothes, a mere dot on the landscape, driving 30 cattle from the pasture, without dispute or slightest fear. When he came near the one that chose to remain to crop the tender grass blades near the path, the lusty bovine kicked its heels high into the air and ran for cover among the eastward moving herd.

A railroad engineer, with cap reversed, a red handkerchief about his neck, a blue sleeve outside the window, made a mere speck of color in his cab. Yet he controlled the mighty monster of steel that trailed a hundred cars behind it. It roared and hissed across the countryside. I admired and wondered at the power that man's hands controlled.

Not long ago I watched a steamer leave a famous pier, I saw the captain's quarters and the pilot house with curious compasses, charts, and many brass instruments. Tugboats towed her to the broader waters of the bay. From where I stood the pilot seemed no larger than my finger within his room of glass. Yet he guided this floating palace of the sea through the darkness, fog and storm.

Not long ago I visited a sick man during his last illness. He was old and his lean strong face was no longer ruddy, but pale and tired. He turned his steel-gray eyes toward me and murmured, "Eighty-four years is a good while. I've lived my life—I s'pose there ain't much I've missed. I've had love—joy—sorrow. Now I'm off on a longer journey." I thought I felt a soul go on its way to God the greatest miracle of them all.

"O rich and various man, thou palace of sight and sound
Carrying in thy brain the geometry of the city of God
In thy heart the power of love, the realms of right and wrong." —Emerson.

mentioned to defeat Hurley who has been associated with the senate's "Hatchet men."

Democratic leaders from nine counties in northcentral Ohio will greet Gov. Davey on his arrival in the city at 6 p. m. tomorrow at a dinner at the First M. E. church.

Kallmerten, who invited the governor to speak here in the second address of his campaign for a third term, said about 150 county chairmen and city and county officials had been invited to the "welcome dinner."

"The governor and a few others probably will speak briefly before going to the high school auditorium for the rally," Kallmerten added.

Davey is expected to announce his candidacy in a talk at a rally in Youngstown tonight and to carry his campaign to the 17th district in his Mansfield talk tomorrow night.

Petitions seeking to "draft" Davey for a third term were handed to him last night at a rally in Columbus by Ferd M. Pickens, business administrator of the division of aid for the aged, who told the audience that "the petitions were obtained without Mr. Davey's knowledge." Pickens said the petitions contained more than a half million names.

"I shall consider being a candidate very seriously," the governor said.

Preceding last night's rally, Davey attacked the Scripps-Howard newspapers in Ohio in a radio address, accusing Roy W. Howard, head of the Scripps-Howard organization, of "trying to Russianize Ohio."

"He seems to take a delight in destroying men in public life, if and when he can," Davey said in referring to Howard.

The governor also defended the state administration, asserting that the highway department, recently investigated by the graft committee, is "just as honest as any human institution in this country."

He added that the liquor department, also investigated, "has given magnificent public performance."

The Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Tuesday, April 5. "My yoke is easy, and my burden is light." Read Matthew 11:28-30.

George Adam Smith says that these are the greatest words in the Bible.

The "yoke" had been to the Jew for centuries the symbol of the tribulations he had had to bear. The old prophets had promised to take the yoke off his shoulders. Jesus held out no such promise. Rather, he said that he would teach men how to bear their yoke. Christianity is not a means of getting rid of the "heavy and the weary weight of all this unintelligible world," but a way of carrying it.

Years ago I quoted in the Harvard Chapel a passage from a modern novel, in which a mother says to her daughter, who is facing a real trouble for the first time, that nothing which happens matters very much or for very long: it's only the way we take it that matters, and that matters greatly and matters always. The other day a Boston doctor came to me and said that he had heard the sermon in Chapel, had remembered the quotation, and that over all the intervening years it had been his anchor in times of mental storm.

Prayer: O God, who dost grant us safe anchors for the soul, give us in time of trouble the shelter of the mind of Christ and bring us thus to our desired haven: through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

SOUGHT IN WEST

Shelby Man, Missing 2 Weeks, Believed In Chicago.

The search for a Shelby father who has been missing from his home for two weeks today turned to Chicago as Police Chief LeRoy Coffey sought to communicate with relatives concerning the man's whereabouts.

Working on the theory that William Rankin Bloom, 26, who is wanted on a charge of abandoning his wife and child, might have left home voluntarily, Coffey said he had written to relatives in Chicago.

The chief said Bloom who has been missing from his home since March 18, drew his pay at the Shelby Cycle company where he was employed on that day and has not been seen since. It was learned, however, that the man had visited his parents near Shiloh on the same day and later was seen near the outskirts of Shelby with a suitbox under his arm.

An affidavit for his arrest on the abandonment charge was filed with Law Director Theodore Lutz Saturday by Mrs. Bloom.

BUSINESS AID MOVEMENT ON IN CONGRESS

Expect Recovery Tax Bill to Meet Objections on New Deal Levies.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Congress speeded help for business today in a general movement to check recession and avoid a burst of railroad receiverships.

A business recovery tax bill, formulated by the senate finance committee, is expected to meet some of the major objections of business to New Deal tax policies.

The house in voting authority for $1,500,000,000 of emergency RFC advances to business removed interstate commerce commission power to veto loans.

The new Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan bill, an emergency measure of the type resorted to during early years of the 1929 depression, has been passed by both senate and house in substantially identical form. The outstanding difference is that the senate bill gave the ICC veto authority over loans which the RFC might otherwise have advanced.

Clause Eliminated.

The house eliminated that provision without formal explanation of its usual procedure which violates the theory of commission supervision of railroad financing. Various explanations were made, including a suggestion that the commission might retain its loan veto power under the house bill. But the concensus was that the bill was so drafted as to enable the RFC to make loans regardless of ICC approval.

Railroads on their own are asking for a federal subsidy. Representatives of railroad labor and managements informed President Roosevelt yesterday that a federal guarantee of railroad income would revive the industry.

Estimates of maximum cost of a federal guarantee ranged up to $300,000,000 annually. But representatives of the roads explained that if a guarantee were made the industry would be warranted in proceeding with big scale spending for equipment which, in turn, would quicken the steel industry and others contributing to maintenance of rolling stock so that more jobs would be created and national purchasing power would increase.

'CURB SERVICE'

Patrolman Directs Blazing Truck to Nearest Fire Station.

PITTSBURGH— (INS) —McKees Rocks firemen could hang out a "curb service" sign today if they wanted to.

Rubbish in a truck cruising the street caught fire and a nearby patrolman leaped aboard, directed the driver to the nearest fire station where obliging firemen put out the flames.

the principles or policies of the republic, no danger to any of our institutions and no thought except to simplify the processes of government and to make more easily workable machinery that has become clogged and unwieldy."

'Pressure' Campaign Beaten.

Shortly before Rayburn's speech, Representative Barton (R-NY) told a radio audience that a Democratic revolt had defeated plans of house leaders "to jam the bill through with practically no debate."

"Now the strategy is to buy off important elements of opposition by specious amendments, private promises and secret understandings," he asserted.

The house had to dispose of a stack of minor legislation before resuming the acrimonious debate over the bill late this afternoon. Leaders decided not to hurry the discussion unduly, but they hoped to reach a final vote this week.

One prominent Democrat joined the opposition forces yesterday. Representative Woodrum (D-Va.) a key member of the appropriations committee, said he could not support the bill because of the welfare department provisions.

He said it might put the dispensing of relief on a permanent basis and that the new department would add from $1,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 to the annual cost of government.

No mater what form the house bill finally takes, a small group of representatives and senators meeting quietly behind closed doors will have the last word on controversial paints of the reorganization program.

If and when the house passes the measure, Vice President Garner and Speaker Bankhead will appoint a "conference comittee" to settle differences between the house and senate versions of the legislation.

A compromise approved by a majority of the conferees is the result. The two chambers usually accept the committee recommendations, because members know it is the only way to enact legislation without endless haggling over details. If one house rejects the compromise, the committee must draft another.

PLANS DEMAND FOR SURRENDER

Franco to Tell Loyalists He Won't Show Mercy If Ultimatum's Rejected.

and, off the coast, the nationalist navy which today was steaming opposite the Tortosa area ready, at command, to join artillery in a bombardment of the Barcelona-Valencia road and the Carmales-Masdenverge-San Carlos - Vinaroz cutoff.

The nationalist offensive seemed almost to have passed its climax. Reports from the front were a succession of admissions by the loyalists that they had lost all along the line and assertions by the nationalists that, as they advanced seadily, loyalist resistance had dwindled until it was hardly an impediment.

Further, in the Guadalajara area northeast of Madrid where the loyalists essayed a diversional offensive, the nationalists asserted they had smashed the attack. And at Teruel, where a small scale loyalist attack was in progress—another effort to distract nationalist attention from Catalona—the nationalists asserted that they had defeated the loyalists with heavy loss.

The nationalist Salamanca radio alleged that there was panic in Barcelona, due to reports of the loyalist collapse on the Catalonian front and the confirmatory arrival of thousands of refugees from the war zone.

It was asserted that between March 9 and March 31, in their Aragon-Catalonia offensive, the nationalists took 18,342 prisoners, buried 7,554 loyalist dead, destroyed nine loyalist divisions and seven brigades, captured 74 field guns, 335 machine guns, 400 submachine guns, 14,000 rifles and 25 tanks.

Fascists Ready to Move on City.

WITH THE SPANISH NATIONALIST ARMY, CATALONIAN FRONT—(UP)—Nationalist troops stormed the last heights dominating Tortosa today and, their guns already within range of the Barcelona-Valencia road, were ready to move on the city proper.

Their morale high, confident of early and final success, the nationalists looked down on the road, the Ebro Delta and Tortosa, the walled city at the river's mouth whose women, by heroism in battle, won the right 800 years ago to precede their men at marriages.

On their left (northern) wing the nationalists crossed into Catalonia along the Norguera Ribagorzana river. They crossed the river also 10 miles north of Lerida and threatened Balaguer, an important communicating center to which the loyalist high command was removed when the fall of Lerida became certain. In a second threat to Balaguer, nationalists moving up the Segre river from Lerida captured Corbins, which is 10 miles southwest.

LIFE BRIGHTER FOR ONDOV AGAIN

Begins to 'Enjoy' Aches and Pains, Learns Sister Has Recovered From Mishap.

It will be three weeks tomorrow that Ondov underwent a delicate operation on his spine, performed at General hospital by a Columbus specialist. The operation relieved the pressure on the nerves which had paralyzed his body from the waist down since Nov. 5, when he was injured in an auto accident near Hayesville, and every hope is held that the Wittenberg graduate will be able again to resume his studies for the ministry.

Ondov was warned by his physicians that he would not be able to feel any sign of life in the lower half of his body for a number of weeks, but he is confident that already he can feel faint aches and pains and is certain of sensations in a tendon of the right ankle.

The operation which gave him a new lease on life was made possible by the generosity of individuals, clubs and churches. A fund was started for him by the Lutheran churches of Mansfield, which has grown to $1,125, according to Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, treasurer. In addition to this amount already collected, a drive is being made for funds at Wittenberg campus by Hamma Divinity school fellow students of Ondov's, which has reached $400.

Ondov will require hospital treatment for a number of months, it is believed.

A representative of the George Rogers Producing company of Fostoria and Mrs. B. E. Seaver of Doylestown attended the meeting, but decision on who would direct the historical pageant was deferred.
